Russian peasants are having a chance for the first time in Russia's history, and they now own land on which they were once slaves. Everybody knows that. But Russia gets even, in her silly communistic press. The Bolsheviki today are reading that American wives and children of striking coal miners are dying of hunger in thousands.

Perhaps they read that our coal barrons use the dead bodies for fertilizer. We swallowed such yarns about the Germans, and wrose. One striker's wife did die of hunger. A few Russian peasants may be very hungry, through crop failure, which is bad enough. But millions died of starvation in India and in Ireland, without Bolshevism to help.

Italy's ambassador has left Berlin and D'Annunzio, hero and poet in war, silly flatterer in peace, fires off 27 cannon shots in honor of Mussolini's threat to whip Germany.

Thus we change. Italy was Germany's ally when the big war started. At least Germany thought so. In 1913 Italy's threat to whip Germany would have amused the "all highest," and his boy, the crown prince, with the "zum Tag" proclivities, would have been much heated up. Now it is different, and Germany will find a sensible, peaceful way out of the situation. Meanwhile Mussolini, who knows that a successful distator must dictate, enjoys dictating to Germany, strengthening greatly his hold on power by [illegible] flag.

He hurries in the direction of the League of Nations. Former kaiser recites Aesop's fable about the donkey that kicked the sick lion.

It is announced firmly that the president will not interfere in the coal strike, because he feels that no good would come of interference. The

Do You Know How To Make Pecan Pralines?

Creole candies occupy a unique position among confections in this country and the most popular of all is the pecan praline.

Most people have the erroneous idea that pralines are difficult to prepare and that the necessary ingredients are costly.

This is not at all true. One pound of brown sugar, one-half pound of pecans, one spoon of butter, and four tablespoonfuls of water will make a goodly supply of pralines.

Try your hand at this candy making. The recipe, along with over 70 other Creole recipes, is contained in the Creole Cook Book which this bureau has for free distribution.

Send for your copy today. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

16 Arrests Made When Police Raid Midland Clubroom

Beaver county officials, assisted by state police, raided the headquarters of a colored club on Midland avenue, Midland, late Wednesday night, making 16 arrests. George Bibbens, alleged proprietor, escaped by leaping from a second story window, as the officers entered the door.

Five prisoners were released upon bonds, while the others were held to await a hearing before Justice Al Busch. An affidavit, charging Bibbens with permitting gambling, has been filed in Beaver. Bibbens was tried on a similar charge at the December term of court but found not guilty.

Wellsville Mayor Demands Police Chief's Resignation

John W. Fultz, Refusing to Comply With Fogo's Request, Retains Attorneys for Court Fight.

Mayor W. L. Fogo, Wellsville, today demanded the resignation of Chief of Police John W. Fultz.

Refusing to acquiesce with the chief executive's request during a short conference at 10 o'clock this morning in the city hall, Fultz was notified by the mayor that his services will be dispensed with on February 15.

Claiming that Mayor Fogo refused to outline reasons for his actions, Fultz declared that he would not quit the job.

As a result of Fultz's stand, Fogo is expected to file charges with the civil service commission.

Fultz has retained Attorneys W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and Ben L. Bennett and Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool.

For a period of five years Fultz has been head of Wellsville police, succeeding former Chief John Reil, at present a councilman-at-large and serving under Mayors George Ingram, A. P. Dennis, the late James Barnes and Frank C. Blackburn.

The following statement was made by Fultz, this morning, through his counsel, W. A. O'Grady:

"In accordance with the pre-election rumors of Honorable W. L. Fogo, mayor of Wellsville, he has requested the undersigned to resign his position as chief of police without offering any reasons therefor.

"I have refused to accede to the request and have asked that he show cause why my office should be vacated. If charges are presented in legal form against me, I desire that the public hold their opinion in abeyance until such time as will enable me to refute the same in accordance with procedure established by law.

"JOHN H. FULTZ,
"Chief of Police."

"I refuse to be quoted on anything."

This was Mayor W. L. Fogo's answer at 1:45 today to questions concerning his request for the resignation of Fultz. Fogo refused to outline any course of action he may be contemplating.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS STATE O. K. OF EXTRA LEVY TO PAY BILLS

Act Under Baxter Law to Liquidate $30,000 Debt.

REPORT DEFICIT

Taxes Outside Limitation Will be Collected For Five Years.

A deficiency of approximately $30,000 in school funds, incurred prior to January 1, last, will be liquidated by issuance of certificates of indebtedness under provisions of the Baxter tax relief law, the board of education decided at a special meeting last night.

Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer, was instructed to file with the state auditor a statement of the school board funds on December 31, 1925. In order to meet the December pay roll the board borrowed $25,000 while more than $5,000 other bills were unpaid.

Upon receipts of approval of the state auditor, the board will issue certificates of indebtedness, or deficiency bonds. The county aduitor will be instructed to increase the school levy for a period of five years to pay for these bonds. This levy will be outside of the limitation provided for school purposes.

May Ask Fall Vote on Levy.

Ordinarily a vote of the electors is necessary for an extraordinary levy, but the Baxter bill, passed a few weeks ago by the state legislature obviates this move.

The increased levy will mean only a fraction of a mill, school board members said. It will be payable in June.

School boards and municipalities, acting under the Baxter act, must file their statement of indebtedness with the state auditor not later than April 1.

By cancelling all debts which existed at the end of 1925, the school board is enabled to begin the 1926 school year with a clean slate. With this debt wiped out, the shortage at the end of the year will be reduced from approximately $80,000 to $50,000.

The electors may be asked to approve an additional levy at the November election.

OPERATORS AND MINERS WILL SETTLE DISPUTE AT PHILADELPHIA MEET

Warring Factions Bury Hatchet and Leaders Will Attach Signatures to Five-Year Contract at Joint Conference This Afternoon, According to Reliable Information Given Out in Washington.

SECRETARY OF LABOR J. J. DAVIS INSTRUMENTAL IN CALLING PARLEY

Cabinet Member Happy as Men Promise to Return to Work on Present Wage Scale, Thus Ending Longest and Most Bitterly Contested Hard Coal Strike in History.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The miners' coal scale committee today ratified the peace pact between the operators and miners to end the hard coal strike without modifying any of the proposed terms.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—An agreement between operators and miners to end the long hard coal strike will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon, it was learned from a reliable source this morning.

"STRIKE IS SETTLED"—STATEMENT ISSUED BY GOVERNOR PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—"The anthracite strike is settled."

This was the statement made by Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today.

"I am able to make this announcement because I have been in touch with negotiations.

"I make this statement with profound thankfulness. The settlement will restore prosperity in the anthracite region and bring relief and comfort to millions of American homes."

The warring factions have agreed to the settlement plan and leaders of the operators and miners will attach their signatures to the agreement at a joint conference called for 1 o'clock. The settlement will be based on a new five-year contract and the miners will return to work on the present wage scale.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis was instrumental in bringing the operators and miners together. The settlement plan was carried by Davis to the cabinet meeting this morning, and was received with satisfaction by President Coolidge and his advisers.

Additional details of the settlement were not divulged.

End Bitter Contest.

The agreement will bring to an end the longest anthracite strike in history, and one of the most bitterly contested.

Davis has been quietly endeavoring for weeks to bring the warring factions together. His efforts were surrounded with great secrecy because of the unwillingness of President Coolidge to openly have the federal government intervene in the situation. The president, however, is understood to have been cognizant of Davis' "unofficial" efforts.

Davis was radiant when he entered the cabinet meeting. In response to questions on the strike, he said:

"I believe this coal strike is at an end. I believe an agreement will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon."

Conference is Called.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—Chairman Alvan Markle called a new conference of the joint negotiating committee of anthracite miners and operators to meet today at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Bellevue-Stratford.

The call issued through James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference, was made this morning immediately before the full scale committee of miners convened here to consider a new proposal submitted by the operators.

FOUR POINTS OF AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The peace agreement in the anthracite strike, to be signed at Philadelphia this afternoon by joint committees of the operators and miners, consists of four principal points:

They are:

1.—A five-year wage contract.

2.—The wage agreement is to be re-opened at any time at the request of either party. Wages are to remain the same unless changed by mutual consent.

3.—Arbitration is to be eliminated from the contract.

4.—A dues collecting arrangement is to be perfected which will not be known as the check-off, but which will amount to the same thing.

TWO SENATORIAL VIEWS OF LESSONS TO BE DRAWN BY PRESENT GENERATION FROM LIFE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 'THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR'

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—Across the sands of time, the figure of Abraham Lincoln stands out as a great beacon to all lovers of human liberty. On this anniversary of his birth, the Review-Tribune herewith presents two senatorial views of the lessons to be drawn by the present generation from the life of the "Great Emancipator." The conservative Republican and Liberal Democrat alike, the inspiration from Lincoln's life is found in his indomitable will that righ should win and in his rise from obscure poverty to the highest honor within the possession of his countrymen.)

BY SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON,
(Republican, of Indiana.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—One of the guiding stars in our history is Abraham Lincoln, the savior of the Union.

The preservation of the Union and enfranchisement of a race were never aught but spiritual. The heroism of that period bespoke the utter abandonment of all things else save only an indissoluble nation and the freedom of all beneath the flag.

The constitution was framed by the trained intellects and the master statesmen of their day for all time to come, but the emancipation proclamation was the product of the inspired genius of one lone man.

Inspiration to All Youth.

This day we pay our heartfelt tribute of respect to the lofty morality, the exalted patriotism and the unswerving devotion to country of Abraham Lincoln, whose life like a bow of promise yet spans and arches all the clouds of war. He towers among us like some solitary peak that has no fellow in all the mountain range of greatness.

The life of Lincoln should be an inspiration to all the youth of the land. He was reared in extreme poverty, amidst the hard conditions of frontier life, with scant opportunities for schooling, and with meager chances for ever touching the lives of other youths.

His whole life illustrates the success that comes to right purpose backed by indomitable courage. He was beaten for the legislature the first time he ran; was denied an appointment to the land office that he sought; was refused a renomination to congress after having served a term; was defeated for the United States senate. Yet, despite these reverses, he held steadily on, having a sublime faith in the righteousness of his cause and in the final just determination of the people.

No contingency appalled him, no obstacle dismayed him, no reverse dimmed the ardor of his soul.

As a orator, as a politician, as a debater, as humanitarian, he stands foremost in all the history of the world among the champions of human liberty. His life should be an inspiration to us all and his deeds cherished by all the coming lovers of humankind.

TRIBUTE PAID "HONEST ABE"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The national capital, where Abraham Lincoln lived and brought to fruition his labors in behalf of humanity, paid tribute to his memory today in a variety of ways.

In congress there were commemorative speches of his greatness and his simplicity. Dozens of patriotic organizations held memorial services in churches and clubrooms.

Listeners in many parts of the country participated in the capital's observance of his birthday through the broadcasting of short tributes from leaders in congress and members of the cabinet.

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER,
(Democrat, of Montana).
His Sympathies Universal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Although comparative greatness is a matter of opinion, I believe I am safe in the assertion that Abraham Lincoln was the greatest man America has so far produced.

Reared in a cabin and denied by circumstances the common opportunities for social culture, so complete was his poise of character that he was equally at home with the ax and maul splitting rails to protect the fields of the pioneer, on the platform, or in cabinet meetings determining grave policies of state.

Lincoln was the product of purely American forces unadulterated by European culture. He represented as no other man in American history, the qualities in our public men that made democracy in America possible and which, so far, have sustained at least a semblance of popular government.

Although the standard bearer of the newly formed Republican party he was in every sense a Democrat. He was born to democracy and never lost the common touch. In his love of liberty and his unswerving stand for individual human rights, he was a Jeffersonian Democrat. His sympathies were universal—they embraced the whole human race.

At this anniversary of his birth, we shall find many Republicans recounting his virtues and making frantic efforts to gain party advantage in the reflected glory of this great soul.

But the dominant leaders of the Republican party today no more resemble Lincoln, with his love and sympathy for the common pleace, his "malice toward none and charity for all," than do those Democrats who shamelessly truckle to the mandates of the financial interests, resemble, in purpose and aspirations, Thomas Jefferson with his "equal opportunties for all and special privilege to none."

The democracy of Lincoln is as severe a rebuke to the Republican politicians, who have abandoned the principles for which he stood, as is the life and work of Jefferson to those who in his name assume to guide the destinies of the party that he founded in liberty and justice.

REBUILT RHEIMS NOW HAS ROOM FOR THOUSANDS

Only 80,000 at Present in French Cathedral City.

VICTIM OF WAR

American Millions Helped to Restore Town's Beauty.

PARIS.—Wanted!—inhabitants for the city of Rheims.

Rebuilt under the direction of the Marquis de Polignac with the aid of Rockefeller's millions, the celebrated city destroyed during the war, can now shelter 115,000 people. Today theree are not more than 80,000.

Rheims is for France what Moscow was for old Russia, the Holy City, a sacred spot, the city of Saint Remi and Clovis, of Jeanne d'Arc and of Charles VII. With its splendid cathedral of before the war, Rheims acquired the reputation of the first city of art in France.

France Helps Pay.

First aid was given her for its reconstruction. Nowhere was the response so ready. The state promised to allot 25,000,000 francs per year for rebuilding the city destroyed by the Germans. But only a small sum has been paid up to date and great enterprises which have been undertaken will soon be compelled to shut down.

"The situation has really become dramatic,' declares the Marquis de Polignac. "The work under construction will not be paid for before seven or eight months, without doubt, and under these conditions, it cannot continue. Joined to this reconstruction crisis is an internal economic one. When the buildings now going up are finally finished, Rheims will need 40,000 more inhabitants. Already 1,000 apartments are ready to rent, beautiful and comfortable ones, offered at ridiculous prices. How long will they remain empty?

"Twice-ruined, the proprietors of these unoccupied houses, after having much suffered during the war, are now learning that peace-time also has its troubles and trials. They are now compelled to pay heavy taxees and upkeep expenses on empty buildings which are not bringing them a penny."

Big Industries.

Pre-war Rheims had several large and important industries, especially those of champagne and wool. The first is still important for the vines are there and in good condition. The wool has been burned. New factories should be set up and everything be done to attract more people to the city which is one of the cleanest and healthiest in all France. In it are four large department stores, many good smaller shops, hotels, parks, sporting clubs, a good theatre which often sees good Parisian troupes and above all, the kindest and most amiable inhabitants who hold out a cheery welcome to everyone who comes their way.

When one says she suffers in silence she may mean that when she is in silence she suffers.—Athens Messenger.

Russian peasants are having a chance for the first time in Russia's history, and they now own land on which they were once slaves. Everybody knows that. But Russia gets even, in her silly communistic press. The Bolsheviki today are reading that American wives and children of striking coal miners are dying of hunger in thousands.

Perhaps they read that our coal barrons use the dead bodies for fertilizer. We swallowed such yarns about the Germans, and wrose. One striker's wife did die of hunger. A few Russian peasants may be very hungry, through crop failure, which is bad enough. But millions died of starvation in India and in Ireland, without Bolshevism to help.

Italy's ambassador has left Berlin and D'Annunzio, hero and poet in war, silly flatterer in peace, fires off 27 cannon shots in honor of Mussolini's threat to whip Germany.

Thus we change. Italy was Germany's ally when the big war started. At least Germany thought so. In 1913 Italy's threat to whip Germany would have amused the "all highest," and his boy, the crown prince, with the "zum Tag" proclivities, would have been much heated up. Now it is different, and Germany will find a sensible, peaceful way out of the situation. Meanwhile Mussolini, who knows that a successful distator must dictate, enjoys dictating to Germany, strengthening greatly his hold on power by [illegible]ng.

Do You Know How To Make Pecan Pralines?

Creole candies occupy a unique position among confections in this country and the most popular of all is the pecan praline.

Most people have the erroneous idea that pralines are difficult to prepare and that the necessary ingredients are costly.

This is not at all true. One pound of brown sugar, one-half pound of pecans, one spoon of butter, and four tablespoonfuls of water will make a goodly supply of pralines.

Try your hand at this candy making. The recipe, along with over 70 other Creole recipes, is contained in the Creole Cook Book which this bureau has for free distribution.

Wellsville Mayor Demands Police Chief's Resignation

John W. Fultz, Refusing to Comply With Fogo's Request, Retains Attorneys for Court Fight.

Mayor W. L. Fogo, Wellsville, today demanded the resignation of Chief of Police John W. Fultz.

Refusing to acquiesce with the chief executive's request during a short conference at 10 o'clock this morning in the city hall, Fultz was notified by the mayor that his services will be dispensed with on February 15.

Claiming that Mayor Fogo refused to outline reasons for his actions, Fultz declared that he would not quit the job.

As a result of Fultz's stand, Fogo is expected to file charges with the civil service commission.

Fultz has retained Attorneys W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and Ben L. Bennett and Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool.

For a period of five years Fultz has been head of Wellsville police, succeeding former Chief John Reil, at present a councilman-at-large and serving under Mayors George Ingram, A. P. Dennis, the late James Barnes and Frank C. Blackburn.

The following statement was made by Fultz, this morning, through his counsel, W. A. O'Grady:

"In accordance with the pre-election rumors of Honorable W. L. Fogo, mayor of Wellsville, he has requested the undersigned to resign his position as chief of police without offering any reasons therefor.

"I have refused to accede to the request and have asked that he show cause why my office should be vacated. If charges are presented in legal form against me, I desire that the public hold their opinion in abeyance until such time as will enable me to refute the same in accordance with procedure established by law.

"JOHN H. FULTZ.
"Chief of Police."

"I refuse to be quoted on anything."

This was Mayor W. L. Fogo's answer at 1:45 today to questions concerning his request for the resignation of Fultz. Fogo refused to outline any course of action he may be contemplating.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS STATE O. K. OF EXTRA LEVY TO PAY BILLS

Act Under Baxter Law to Liquidate $30,000 Debt.

REPORT DEFICIT

Taxes Outside Limitation Will be Collected For Five Years.

A deficiency of approximately $30,000 in school funds, incurred prior to January 1, last, will be liquidated by issuance of certificates of indebtedness under provisions of the Baxter tax relief law, the board of education decided at a special meeting last night.

Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer, was instructed to file with the state auditor a statement of the school board funds on December 31, 1925. In order to meet the December pay roll the board borrowed $25,000 while more than $5,000 other bills were unpaid.

Upon receipts of approval of the state auditor, the board will issue certificates of indebtedness, or deficiency bonds. The county aduitor will be instructed to increase the school levy for a period of five years to pay for these bonds. This levy will be outside of the limitation provided for school purposes.

May Ask Fall Vote on Levy.

Ordinarily a vote of the electors is necessary for an extraordinary levy, but the Baxter bill, passed a few weeks ago by the state legislature obviates this move.

The increased levy will mean only a fraction of a mill, school board members said. It will be payable in June.

School boards and municipalities, acting under the Baxter act, must file their statement of indebtedness with the state auditor not later than April 1.

By cancelling all debts which existed at the end of 1925, the school board is enabled to begin the 1926 school year with a clean slate. With this debt wiped out, the shortage at the end of the year will be reduced from approximately $80,000 to $50,000.

The electors may be asked to approve an additional levy at the November election.

OPERATORS AND MINERS WILL SETTLE DISPUTE AT PHILADELPHIA MEET

Warring Factions Bury Hatchet and Leaders Will Attach Signatures to Five-Year Contract at Joint Conference This Afternoon, According to Reliable Information Given Out in Washington.

SECRETARY OF LABOR J. J. DAVIS INSTRUMENTAL IN CALLING PARLEY

Cabinet Member Happy as Men Promise to Return to Work on Present Wage Scale, Thus Ending Longest and Most Bitterly Contested Hard Coal Strike in History.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The miners' coal scale committee today ratified the peace pact between the operators and miners to end the hard coal strike without modifying any of the proposed terms.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—An agreement between operators and miners to end the long hard coal strike will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon, it was learned from a reliable source this morning.

"STRIKE IS SETTLED"—STATEMENT ISSUED BY GOVERNOR PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—"The anthracite strike is settled."

This was the statement made by Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today.

"I am able to make this announcement because I have been in touch with negotiations.

"I make this statement with profound thankfulness. The settlement will restore prosperity in the anthracite region and bring relief and comfort to millions of American homes."

The warring factions have agreed to the settlement plan and leaders of the operators and miners will attach their signatures to the agreement at a joint conference called for 1 o'clock. The settlement will be based on a new five-year contract and the miners will return to work on the present wage scale.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis was instrumental in bringing the operators and miners together. The settlement plan was carried by Davis to the cabinet meeting this morning, and was received with satisfaction by President Coolidge and his advisers.

Additional details of the settlement were not divulged.

End Bitter Contest.

The agreement will bring to an end the longest anthracite strike in history, and one of the most bitterly contested.

Davis has been quietly endeavoring for weeks to bring the warring factions together. His efforts were surrounded with great secrecy because of the unwillingness of President Coolidge to openly have the federal government intervene in the situation. The president, however, is understood to have been cognizant of Davis' "unofficial" efforts.

Davis was radiant when he entered the cabinet meeting. In response to questions on the strike, he said:

"I believe this coal strike is at an end. I believe an agreement will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon."

Conference is Called.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—Chairman Alvan Markle called a new conference of the joint negotiating committee of anthracite miners and operators to meet today at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Bellevue-Stratford.

The call issued through James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference, was made this morning immediately before the full scale committee of miners convened here to consider a new proposal submitted by the operators.

FOUR POINTS OF AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The peace agreement in the anthracite strike, to be signed at Philadelphia this afternoon by joint committees of the operators and miners, consists of four principal points:

They are:

1.—A five-year wage contract.

2.—The wage agreement is to be re-opened at any time at the request of either party. Wages are to remain the same unless changed by mutual consent.

3.—Arbitration is to be eliminated from the contract.

4.—A dues collecting arrangement is to be perfected which will not be known as the check-off, but which will amount to the same thing.

TWO SENATORIAL VIEWS OF LESSONS TO BE DRAWN BY PRESENT GENERATION FROM LIFE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 'THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR'

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—Across the sands of time, the figure of Abraham Lincoln stands out as a great beacon to all lovers of human liberty. On this anniversary of his birth, the Review-Tribune herewith presents two senatorial views of the lessons to be drawn by the present generation from the life of the "Great Emancipator." The conservative Republican and Liberal Democrat alike, the inspiration from Lincoln's life is found in his indomitable will that righ should win and in his rise from obscure poverty to the highest honor within the possession of his countrymen.)

BY SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON,
(Republican, of Indiana.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—One of the guiding stars in our history is Abraham Lincoln, the savior of the Union.

The preservation of the Union and enfranchisement of a race were never aught but spiritual. The heroism of that period bespoke the utter abandonment of all things else save only an indissoluble nation and the freedom of all beneath the flag.

The constitution was framed by the trained intellects and the master statesmen of their day for all time to come, but the emancipation proclamation was the product of the inspired genius of one lone man.

Inspiration to All Youth.

This day we pay our heartfelt tribute of respect to the lofty morality, the exalted patriotism and the unswerving devotion to country of Abraham Lincoln, whose life like a bow of promise yet spans and arches all the clouds of war. He towers among us like some solitary peak that has no fellow in all the mountain range of greatness.

The life of Lincoln should be an inspiration to all the youth of the land. He was reared in extreme poverty, amidst the hard conditions of frontier life, with scant opportunities for schooling, and with meager chances for ever touching the lives of other youths.

His whole life illustrates the success that comes to right purpose backed by indomitable courage. He was beaten for the legislature the first time he ran; was denied an appointment to the land office that he sought; was refused a renomination to congress after having served a term; was defeated for the United States senate. Yet, despite these reverses, he held steadily on, having a sublime faith in the righteousness of his cause and in the final just determination of the people.

No contingency appalled him, no obstacle dismayed him, no reverse dimmed the ardor of his soul.

As a orator, as a politician, as a debater, as humanitarian, he stands foremost in all the history of the world among the champions of human liberty. His life should be an inspiration to us all and his deeds cherished by all the coming lovers of humankind.

TRIBUTE PAID "HONEST ABE"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The national capital, where Abraham Lincoln lived and brought to fruition his labors in behalf of humanity, paid tribute to his memory today in a variety of ways.

In congress there were commemorative speches of his greatness and his simplicity. Dozens of patriotic organizations held memorial services in churches and clubrooms.

Listeners in many parts of the country participated in the capital's observance of his birthday through the broadcasting of short tributes from leaders in congress and members of the cabinet.

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER,
(Democrat, of Montana),
His Sympathies Universal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Although comparative greatness is a matter of opinion, I believe I am safe in the assertion that Abraham Lincoln was the greatest man America has so far produced.

Reared in a cabin and denied by circumstances the common opportunities for social culture, so complete was his poise of character that he was equally at home with the ax and maul splitting rails to protect the fields of the pioneer, on the platform, or in cabinet meetings determining grave policies of state.

Lincoln was the product of purely American forces unadulterated by European culture. He represented as no other man in American history, the qualities in our public men that made democracy in America possible and which, so far, have sustained at least a semblance of popular government.

Although the standard bearer of the newly formed Republican party he was in every sense a Democrat. He was born to democracy and never lost the common touch. In his love of liberty and his unswerving stand for individual human rights, he was a Jeffersonian Democrat. His sympathies were universal—they embraced the whole human race.

At this anniversary of his birth, we shall find many Republicans recounting his virtues and making frantic efforts to gain party advantage in the reflected glory of this great soul.

But the dominant leaders of the Republican party today no more resemble Lincoln, with his love and sympathy for the common pleace, his "malice toward none and charity for all," than do those Democrats who shamelessly truckle to the mandates of the financial interests, resemble, in purpose and aspirations, Thomas Jefferson with his "equal opportunties for all and special privilege to none."

The democracy of Lincoln is as severe a rebuke to the Republican politicians, who have abandoned the principles for which he stood, as is the life and work of Jefferson to those who in his name assume to guide the destinies of the party that he founded in liberty and justice.

"One Way Street," At the American, Is Gripping Drama

A beautiful woman can face defiantly any tragedy but that of the doom of old age. And to see this tragedy enacted, as it is at the American theatre in First National's picturization of the Beale Davis novel, "One Way Street," is to share with her its poignancy.

Seldom has it been our good fortune to witness a pitcture so gripping in its hold on the emotions, and we recommend it without reservation to those who enjoy good photoplays.

"One Way Street' brings Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson into a game of drama in which Fate holds all the trump cards, with the half-blind human players witlessly vying against each other.

As a novel, "One Way Street" passed the test by becoming one of the best sellers. As First National has brought it to the screen, it has much of the frankness and penetration of the novel, though presented with judicious restraint and dexterity.

"Necking" With Your Best Girl in Movie O. K., Says Court

NE WYORK, Feb. 12.—"It's "O, K." to indulge in a little "necking" when you take your best girl to a movie.

At least Magistrate Andrew McCreary thinks so. He doesn't think "petting" in public is a crime.

"In fact," he said, "display of ardent affection between young lovers ought to be encouraged. This so-called 'necking" often leads to marriage."

And he forthwith dismissed charges against John Harvey, 22, and his 17-year-old sweetheart, Margaret Brown, accused of "necking" in a motion picture house.

A Word to the Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of MAYR'S 'One Dose Will Convince,' and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere

The Unschooled Lincoln

A recent biographer says that Abraham Lincoln could have gone to college if he had wanted to. There were small, comparatively inexpensive colleges in the part of the country in which Lincoln lived. The biographer assumes that Lincoln chose the political path early and decided that he could advance along it more directly by self-education than by a college course.

This raises the speculation as to what college might have done to Lincoln. Such "if's" are not really profitable. It is of more value to study Lincoln's life as he lived it than as he might have lived it.

He was a great man and a great president. He was great in his simplicity and in his sincerity, great in his understanding of his fellow-men and in his vision of his country's needs and perils.

His achievements as president of the United States are matters for thankful pride to citizens today. His life is a source of inspiration to youthful Americans. He is deeply reverenced and loved today by a united nation.

Stars

A leaflet blew in from a big city library the other day, with a list of books on its shelves ready for lending to amateur astronomers. We haven't space to print them all, but perhaps there are enough people hereabouts who are interested in looking at the skies and would like to know more about them to justify picking out a few books whose very names give a lift of the spirit. Some of them can probably be found at the local library.

Ball, the story of the heavens. Dolmage, astronomy of today. Giberne, this wonderful univérse. Gregory, the valet of heaven. Jacoby, astronomy. Lewis, spendors of the sky. Macpherson, romance of modern astronomy. Phillips, spendor of the heavens. Proctor, evenings with the stars.

There are several books by Serviss, assisting the observer with the naked eye and with the opera glass, and several by Olcott dealing with sun lore and star lore and guiding to the world opened up by the three-inch telescope. There are books by Abbott, Sampson, Lewis and Mitchell on the sun and eclipses; books by Elson, Martin and Murphy for the very beginning beginner. And, of course, there are learned books and deep books as well.

Camille Flammarion is not on the list. Many would put his work first, for popular interest and completeness.

It's a great time of year, almost everywhere, to have a whack at this most ancient, most modern and most inclusive of sciences.

Rules of The Air

After five years of discussion and planning, a set of air traffic rules has been worked out for this country. Here are the main features:

Balloons have the right of way, as sailing vessels have on the sea. Dirigibles have the right of way over airplanes. The latter, corresponding to steamships and motor craft on water, are assumed to be able to take of themselves.

Aircraft meeting head on must turn to the right. One craft overtaking another shall pass to the right also.

"Dangerous proximity" is within 1,500 feet.

So now you know what to do when you take to the air, where traffic cops and signs are few.

Not everybody, though, is to be allowed to fly. There will be medical examinations for aviators, to determine their physical and mental fitness, with tests for "night blindness" among other things, and requirement of a "good family history."

These rules ought to be O. K., if expert authority can make the mso. They were worked out, along with many others, affecting airship manufacture as well as flight, by the Aeronautic Safety Code committee and the American Engineering Standards committee. They represent the best thought of 50 experts from 20 organizations, and the sponsored by the United States bureau of standards and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Such a code has long been needed. If more definite official sanction of the government is desired, that should be promptly given.

Up-And-Going Teachers

Every summer the throng of touring teachers grows larger. They go everywhere, visiting regions new to them in their own country and invading foreign lands with keen interest in beauty of scene, historical lore and varied customs.

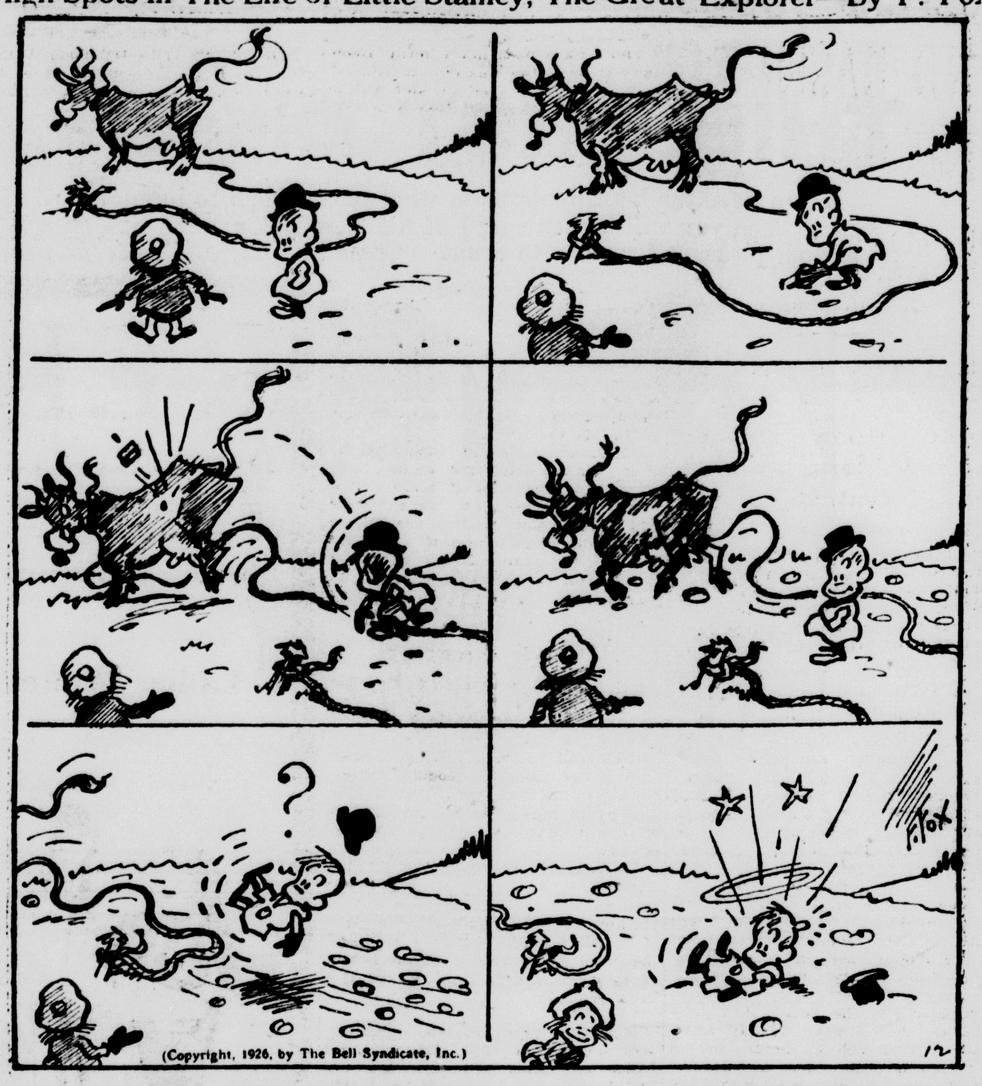

In addition to all these teacher-travelers there are the increasing number of teacher-students who flock to the colleges and universities all over the country, combing pleasure and travel with advanced study along the lines they teach or in general culture courses.

This is a fine symptom. A group of intelligent, well trained and well-traveled teachers is indispensable to the educational needs of the new times.

Says Valentino, "No woman, however beautiful, is worth fighting for." Now it's time for female star to tell the world that no man, however brave, is worth beautifying for.

Matrimony, says a Roman official, is a profession. We've certainly got some seasoned professionals in this country.

High Spots in The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer—By F. Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—My chief trouble as a reportorial observer is that I have all the qualities of litmus paper. I absorb the colorings of my surroundings. When in New York I think it is the only city in the world. The same reaction takes place in Paris, London, Los Angeles or New Orleans.

I am an unfamiliar mark for those geysers of gossip that gush in every community. Right now I am convonced Greater Miami is an Aladdin of cities. Most people I meet tell me that. Anyway my visit has not been without reward. I heard a Scotch story I never heard before today.

A Scot's wife passed away during the night. The family cook came into the bedroom to inquire of the master as to the mistress' condition. With tears streaming down his face Sandy moaned between sobs, "Only one egg this morn, Annie."

Prices boom naturally in booming communities. But $2 for an at-home haircut is putting it on thick for taking it off thin. The barber assured me he trimmed Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist, back in Port Washington, L. I. All I can say is that he trimmed me good —two ways.

Alvin seems to achieve graceful effects out in the yard with the lawn mower. He has furnished an idea. I am going to let my hair grow and fall asleep some day in the path of the mower. Hotsy-totsy! You can't trick the Scots.

Miami newspapers feature weather news. I imagine they have a standing headline, "Storm Hits East!" This pleases visiting firemen. But Miami has its shivering cool nights. Several times the only way I kept my teeth from chattering was to carry them in my hand.

And once it rained so hard I sent my post-cards "Greetings from Niagara Falls." To me these changes were welcome, for I can think of nothing so monotonous as perpetual sunshine. Unless it is having your feet stepped upon in New York.

Today we ran across the theatrical troupers who sailed on the same barque from New York. Most of them were longing for the lights o' Broadway. It is the way of all Thespians. When away from Broadway they are only camping out. A bathless room in an Eighth avenue boarding house is preferable to a screened sun-porch on the ocean front.

Most of us who have followed the literature of Florida's history rather expect to be aroused mornings by an alligator crawling over the coverlets and giving us a flip in the face with its tail. So far I haven't seen an alligator or the aquatic bird with the loveliest name in ornithology—the flamingo.

There is the story of the venerable darkey who acted as caretaker of an alligator pond. A New Yorker watched them sunning themselves and inquired: "Colonel, are they amphibious?"

"Yessah. Amphibious as the devil. They's bite you in a minute."

All over Florida are the little tented cities of tin can tourists. It is a gypsy life de luxe. Some follow dreams of easy wealth and others mere nomadic inclinations. They are here today and gone tomorrow. They eat, sleep and live after the fashion of Omar.

The most beautiful tree in Florida is the long needle pine. It has a glistening sparkle in the sun, and at night it catches the moon rays with prismatic splendor.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Indian Health and Education.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Health and education are the first things talked about in the report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke to the secretary of the interior. The health of these wards of the United States is of paramount importance. Likewise their education must stand as a credit or discredit to the government. For, properly speaking, the citizens of America are using their land, their rightful heritage, their rivers, and forests, their ancient homeland. To keep them well and to teach them is the least the government can do.

Regarding their health, Mr. Burke says "It is indeed gratifying to be able to report that our health campaign for the conquest of disease among our Indians has achieved a fair degree of success, notwithstanding the difficulties under which it has been carried on. Statistics will show that the Indian race is not a dying race, but a race which is gradually gaining in number and responding to the impulse imparted by education and changing environment."

The bureau of Indian affairs maintains activities in 24 of the states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Nort Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In its health work the Indian service is not merely attempting to cure and prevent sickness; this is but one object. The main thing is to build the vitality of the Indians and construct for them a new standard of living that will make them compatible with the rest of American civilization.

This is a big problem and a formidable one. It has many phases and is detailed and exhausing. It involves a school-health program, an industrial program, and a great amount of preventive work, and systematic attention to the physical welfare of children in order that the race may prosper and grow in strength.

A Health Program.

There is a program of health education outlined by the Indian service for its charges. It was realized that the Indians of the future generations must live more rationally and in better harmony with the rest of American civilization than those of this generation or the ones preceding it. Hence it was seen that the schools must supply the training and habits that are to make for this change and the program of health education was adopted.

Whatever appears in the lives of any people must be taught in their schools. The children of the Indians will respond to health education. They have been given a definite program. In this course the value of healthful habits in early life which are to be followed during a lifetime are stressed. Emphasis is placed upon average habits, such as can be acquired by the average child and carried into the province of character. Once the children are taught the way to live and how to live, the biggest task of the Indian service will be over. The children of a people stand for progress. They are the hope of any race.

May 1 has been declared Child Health Day in the United States. On that day observance will be carried out in all the Indian schools. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has written a preamble to the child's bill of health. He says, to quote a part of it: "The ideal to which we should strive is that there should be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health." The Indian service intends to apply this principle to the children of America's aboriginies.

The past year has been one marked with many epidemics among the Indians. Theer were as many cases of influenza as there were in that fateful year when this disease swept through the entire country—1919. Other than influenza there were epidemics of smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, mumps, and chicken pox. The people of many of the reservations were at tacked by these epidemics in rapid succession, and, at times, even simultaneously. There was one case of typhus in a school in Arizona. However, there has been an excess of births over deaths despite the abnormal conditions and the wave of epidemics. Consequently there has been an increase in population.

Education has been carried on vigorously among the Indians. All available data show that both the enrollment and attendance of Indian children in all schools showed improvement over the preceding year. The attendance, has, however, been diminished in several schools by the invasion of serious epidemics in communicable diseases.

More Schools Not Needed.

It becomes more and more difficult to secure an enrollment or maintain an attendance equal to the capacity of a school during the first and second years after its establishment. In any case, the securing of children for enrollment at the opening of school in Septehmer is and will continue to be one of the greatest problems before the Indian service in its program of education. With a few exceptions, the services states, further increases of capacity of school buildings would be inadvisable at the present time.

Administration has been strained and suffered to keep pace with increases of this wind. The program now should be more efficiency, increased attendance, and more rapid educational progress in the schools as they are. However, facilities and equipment are wanting. The annual increase in attendance of Indian children in the state public schools is another factor which is of great significance in its influence on the future of the government schools.

August 31 has been set aside as Educational and Enrollment week and agency workers have been instructed to make use of all possible opportunities to interest Indian parents in the education of their children. Missionaries, traders, all, in fact, in touch with Indian communities, have been invited to take part in the drive in the name of education during the week prior to the opening of school. This policy has been followed several years and has come to be recognized as a definite and important feature of the educational program.

The results of this practice are manifest. Where a few years ago enrollment was a task that taxed the minds and bodies of the workers, it is now a comparatively simple and pleasant one, with the exception of a few isolated sections of the country where the Indians do not yet appreciate the value of education.

For the school year which opened formally September 2, 1934, and closed June 10, 1925, attendance at government schools was good, although not all that was to be desired, and in public schools enrollment was larger than ever before. The trend of attendance toward public schools is quite marked. Each year there is an increasing friendly sentiment on the part of public school officials.

HIGHS ANNEX FIRST VICTORY

Local Passers Take Double Bill With Chester Teams.

Before a crowd of students and fans in general that broke all local attendance records for the present season, Wellsville high school passers, both boys and girls, broke into the victory column last night by taking both ends of a double bill from Chester high school teams.

Coach Klinck's boys landed a 22 to 11 decision and the Orange and Black girls finished ahead by a count of 41-10.

Despite the fact that the Wellsville cagers led all the way in the main contest, the game was a battle from start to finish.

The West Virginians sank only three baskets during the evening, with Miller, Pinney and Campbell distributing the honors. Hunter, with three field goals and a foul, and Calhoun, with four two-pointers and three free tossers, led the scorers.

The local boys' and girls' teams are scheduled to play in Columbiana tonight.

SIAM MISSIONARY TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Ralph I. McConnell, missionary to the country of Siam since 1921, will give an address at special services on Sunday evening in the Second Presbyterian church here.

Rev. McConnell is one of the younger generation of missionaries sent out by the Presbyterian church. The work of missionaries in Siam has been among the most difficult of any in the foreign conutries to which missionaries are sent. Many efforts were made to start such work there, according to Rev. Thomas Berger, pastor of the local church, but each in turn was given up. An attempt then was made by the Presbyterian church and after great difficulty, the work began to grow until today Siam is one of the most successful mission fields of the church.

Rev. McConnell, who comes from these fields, will speak in connection with the annual praise service of the Women's Missionary society.

GOLFERS JONES AND HAGEN TO MEET IN MATCH

Thrilling Clash is Promised on Florida Courses.

BEGINS FEB. 28

Locker Room Debates Over Merits to be Settled.

PASADENA, Fla., Feb. 12.—One of the most thrilling matches in recent golf history has been arranged.

Bobby Jones vs Walter Hagen.

These two, the foremost figures in the golf world today, will meet in a 72 hole match play game on February 28, at the Whitefield Country club in Sarasota and finish the game over the Pasadena Golf and Country club course on March 6.

There have been more locker room debates over the relative merits of Bobby Jones, the amateur, and Walter Hagen, the professional, than over anything else in golf.

Jones for the last two years has won the amateur championship of the United States.

Gate Receipts for Hagen.

So it is with Hagen in match play golf. In 1924 he won the professional match play championship at French Lick Springs. Then he repeated at Chicago last September after one of the most remarkable fights in the history of golf.

At the open championship at Worcester last June, Hagen suggested to Jones that if they were fortunate enough to repeat in their match play championships that they have a game in Florida this winter.

Jones expressed the wish that all of the gate reeceipts for the match be given to Hagen. A limited number of tickets would be sold. This gallery will be kept down so that the golfers will be able to do their stuff and those who are fortunate enough to obtain tickets will be able to see the shots played.

U. S. Coast Survey to Chart Hawaii Harbors At Molokai Islands

HONOLULU—The U. S. S. Discoverer, of the coast and geodetic survey, has arrived in Hawaiian waters to conduct hydrographic studies, particularly off the coasts of Kauai and Molokai islands.

The proposed survey off the island of Kauai is considered by local shipping men as of special importance due to the fact that this area lies in the path of vessels traveling between here and the Orient and a number of shoals and rocks are known to be in the vicinity to be studied.

More than 44,000,000 feet of lumber will be used this year in making hogsheads and cases to carry American leaf tobacco products to other parts of the world.

The Unschooled Lincoln

A recent biographer says that Abraham Lincoln could have gone to college if he had wanted to. There were small, comparatively inexpensive colleges in the part of the country in which Lincoln lived. The biographer assumes that Lincoln chose the political path early and decided that he could advance along it more directly by self-education than by a college course.

This raises the speculation as to what college might have done to Lincoln. Such "if's" are not really profitable. It is of more value to study Lincoln's life as he lived it than as he might have lived it.

He was a great man and a great president. He was great in his simplicity and in his sincerity, great in his understanding of his fellow-men and in his vision of his country's needs and perils.

His achievements as president of the United States are matters for thankful pride to citizens today. His life is a source of inspiration to youthful Americans. He is deeply reverenced and loved today by a united nation.

Stars

A leaflet blew in from a big city library the other day, with a list of books on its shelves ready for lending to amateur astronomers. We haven't space to print them all, but perhaps there are enough people hereabouts who are interested in looking at the skies and would like to know more about them to justify picking out a few books whose very names give a lift of the spirit. Some of them can probably be found at the local library.

Ball, the story of the heavens. Dolmage, astronomy of today. Giberne, this wonderful univérse. Gregory, the valet of heaven. Jacoby, astronomy. Lewis, spendors of the sky. Macpherson, romance of modern astronomy. Phillips, spendor of the heavens. Proctor, evenings with the stars.

There are several books by Serviss, assisting the observer with the naked eye and with the opera glass, and several by Olcott dealing with sun lore and star lore and guiding to the world opened up by the three-inch telescope. There are books by Abbott, Sampson, Lewis and Mitchell on the sun and eclipses; books by Elson, Martin and Murphy for the very beginning beginner. And, of course, there are learned books and deep books as well.

Camille Flammarion is not on the list. Many would put his work first, for popular interest and completeness.

It's a great time of year, almost everywhere, to have a whack at this most ancient, most modern and most inclusive of sciences.

Rules of The Air

After five years of discussion and planning, a set of air traffic rules has been worked out for this country. Here are the main features:

Balloons have the right of way, as sailing vessels have on the sea. Dirigibles have the right of way over airplanes. The latter, corresponding to steamships and motor craft on water, are assumed to be able to take of themselves.

Aircraft meeting head on must turn to the right. One craft overtaking another shall pass to the right also.

"Dangerous proximity" is within 1,500 feet.

So now you know what to do when you take to the air, where traffic cops and signs are few.

Not everybody, though, is to be allowed to fly. There will be medical examinations for aviators, to determine their physical and mental fitness, with tests for "night blindness" among other things, and requirement of a "good family history."

These rules ought to be O. K., if expert authority can make the mso. They were worked out, along with many others, affecting airship manufacture as well as flight, by the Aeronautic Safety Code committee and the American Engineering Standards committee. They represent the best thought of 50 experts from 20 organizations, and the sponsored by the United States bureau of standards and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Such a code has long been needed. If more definite official sanction of the government is desired, that should be promptly given.

Up-And-Going Teachers

Every summer the throng of touring teachers grows larger. They go everywhere, visiting regions new to them in their own country and invading foreign lands with keen interest in beauty of scene, historical lore and varied customs.

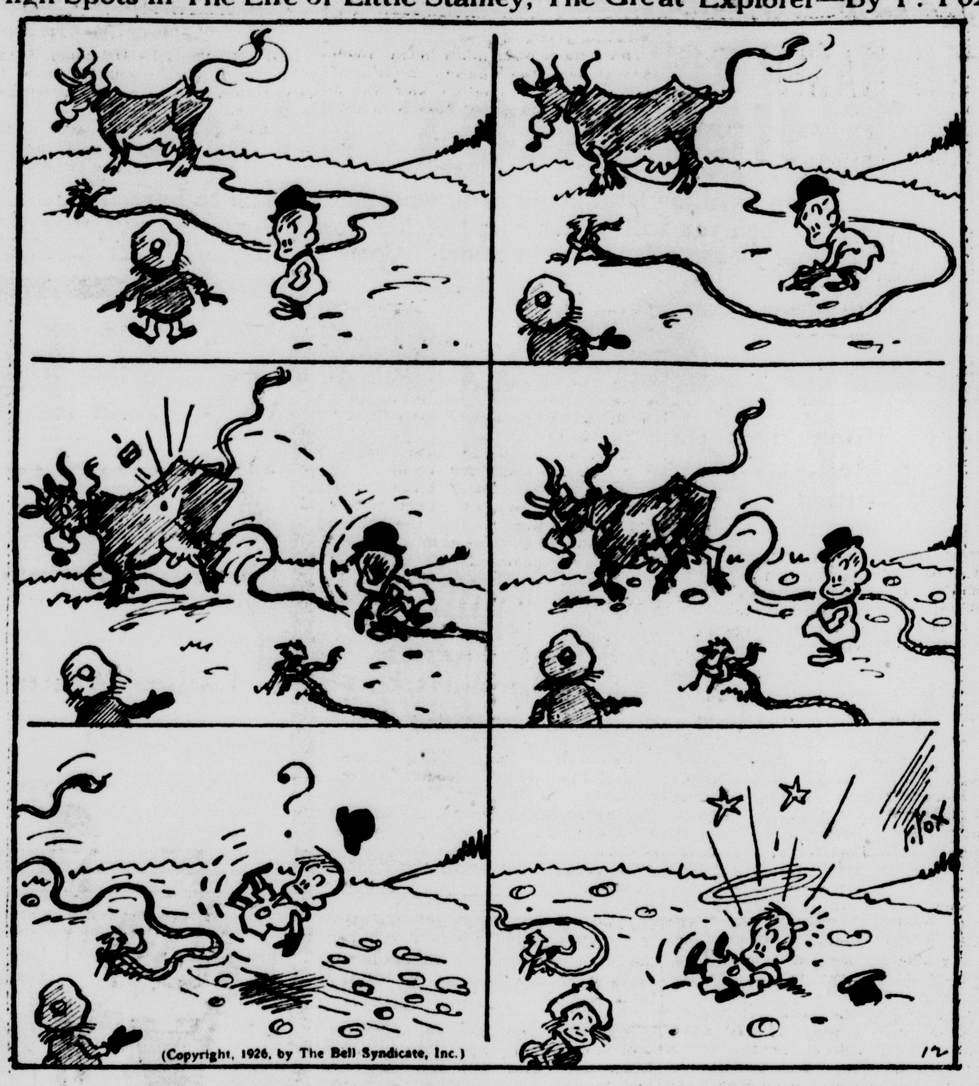

In addition to all these teacher-travelers there are the increasing number of teacher-students who flock to the colleges and universities all over the country, combing pleasure and travel with advanced study along the lines they teach or in general culture courses.

This is a fine symptom. A group of intelligent, well trained and well-traveled teachers is indispensable to the educational needs of the new times.

Says Valentino, "No woman, however beautiful, is worth fighting for." Now it's time for female star to tell the world that no man, however brave, is worth beautifying for.

Matrimony, says a Roman official, is a profession. We've certainly got some seasoned professionals in this country.

High Spots in The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer—By F. Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—My chief trouble as a reportorial observer is that I have all the qualities of litmus paper. I absorb the colorings of my surroundings. When in New York I think it is the only city in the world. The same reaction takes place in Paris, London, Los Angeles or New Orleans.

I am an unfamiliar mark for those geysers of gossip that gush in every community. Right now I am convonced Greater Miami is an Aladdin of cities. Most people I meet tell me that. Anyway my visit has not been without reward. I heard a Scotch story I never heard before today.

A Scot's wife passed away during the night. The family cook came into the bedroom to inquire of the master as to the mistress' condition. With tears streaming down his face Sandy moaned between sobs, "Only one egg this morn, Annie."

Prices boom naturally in booming communities. But $2 for an at-home haircut is putting it on thick for taking it off thin. The barber assured me he trimmed Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist, back in Port Washington, L. I. All I can say is that he trimmed me good —two ways.

Alvin seems to achieve graceful effects out in the yard with the lawn mower. He has furnished an idea. I am going to let my hair grow and fall asleep some day in the path of the mower. Hotsy-totsy! You can't trick the Scots.

Miami newspapers feature weather news. I imagine they have a standing headline, "Storm Hits East!" This pleases visiting firemen. But Miami has its shivering cool nights. Several times the only way I kept my teeth from chattering was to carry them in my hand.

And once it rained so hard I sent my post-cards "Greetings from Niagara Falls." To me these changes were welcome, for I can think of nothing so monotonous as perpetual sunshine. Unless it is having your feet stepped upon in New York.

Today we ran across the theatrical troupers who sailed on the same barque from New York. Most of them were longing for the lights o' Broadway. It is the way of all Thespians. When away from Broadway they are only camping out. A bathless room in an Eighth avenue boarding house is preferable to a screened sun-porch on the ocean front.

Most of us who have followed the literature of Florida's history rather expect to be aroused mornings by an alligator crawling over the coverlets and giving us a flip in the face with its tail. So far I haven't seen an alligator or the aquatic bird with the loveliest name in ornithology—the flamingo.

There is the story of the venerable darkey who acted as caretaker of an alligator pond. A New Yorker watched them sunning themselves and inquired: "Colonel, are they amphibious?"

"Yessah. Amphibious as the devil. They's bite you in a minute."

All over Florida are the little tented cities of tin can tourists. It is a gypsy life de luxe. Some follow dreams of easy wealth and others mere nomadic inclinations. They are here today and gone tomorrow. They eat, sleep and live after the fashion of Omar.

The most beautiful tree in Florida is the long needle pine. It has a glistening sparkle in the sun, and at night it catches the moon rays with prismatic splendor.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Indian Health and Education.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Health and education are the first things talked about in the report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke to the secretary of the interior. The health of these wards of the United States is of paramount importance. Likewise their education must stand as a credit or discredit to the government. For, properly speaking, the citizens of America are using their land, their rightful heritage, their rivers, and forests, their ancient homeland. To keep them well and to teach them is the least the government can do.

Regarding their health, Mr. Burke says "It is indeed gratifying to be able to report that our health campaign for the conquest of disease among our Indians has achieved a fair degree of success, notwithstanding the difficulties under which it has been carried on. Statistics will show that the Indian race is not a dying race, but a race which is gradually gaining in number and responding to the impulse imparted by education and changing environment."

The bureau of Indian affairs maintains activities in 24 of the states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Nort Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In its health work the Indian service is not merely attempting to cure and prevent sickness; this is but one object. The main thing is to build the vitality of the Indians and construct for them a new standard of living that will make them compatible with the rest of American civilization.

This is a big problem and a formidable one. It has many phases and is detailed and exhausing. It involves a school-health program, an industrial program, and a great amount of preventive work, and systematic attention to the physical welfare of children in order that the race may prosper and grow in strength.

A Health Program.

There is a program of health education outlined by the Indian service for its charges. It was realized that the Indians of the future generations must live more rationally and in better harmony with the rest of American civilization than those of this generation or the ones preceding it. Hence it was seen that the schools must supply the training and habits that are to make for this change and the program of health education was adopted.

Whatever appears in the lives of any people must be taught in their schools. The children of the Indians will respond to health education. They have been given a definite program. In this course the value of healthful habits in early life which are to be followed during a lifetime are stressed. Emphasis is placed upon average habits, such as can be acquired by the average child and carried into the province of character. Once the children are taught the way to live and how to live, the biggest task of the Indian service will be over. The children of a people stand for progress. They are the hope of any race.

May 1 has been declared Child Health Day in the United States. On that day observance will be carried out in all the Indian schools. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has written a preamble to the child's bill of health. He says, to quote a part of it: "The ideal to which we should strive is that there should be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health." The Indian service intends to apply this principle to the children of America's aboriginies.

The past year has been one marked with many epidemics among the Indians. Theer were as many cases of influenza as there were in that fateful year when this disease swept through the entire country—1919. Other than influenza there were epidemics of smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, mumps, and chicken pox. The people of many of the reservations were attacked by these epidemics in rapid succession, and, at times, even simultaneously. There was one case of typhus in a school in Arizona. However, there has been an excess of births over deaths despite the abnormal conditions and the wave of epidemics. Consequently there has been an increase in population.

Education has been carried on vigorously among the Indians. All available data show that both the enrollment and attendance of Indian children in all schools showed improvement over the preceding year. The attendance, has, however, been diminished in several schools by the invasion of serious epidemics in communicable diseases.

More Schools Not Needed.

It becomes more and more difficult to secure an enrollment or maintain an attendance equal to the capacity of a school during the first and second years after its establishment. In any case, the securing of children for enrollment at the opening of school in Septehmer is and will continue to be one of the greatest problems before the Indian service in its program of education. With a few exceptions, the services states, further increases of capacity of school buildings would be inadvisable at the present time.

Administration has been strained and suffered to keep pace with increases of this wind. The program now should be more efficiency, increased attendance, and more rapid educational progress in the schools as they are. However, facilities and equipment are wanting. The annual increase in attendance of Indian children in the state public schools is another factor which is of great significance in its influence on the future of the government schools.

August 31 has been set aside as Educational and Enrollment week and agency workers have been instructed to make use of all possible opportunities to interest Indian parents in the education of their children. Missionaries, traders, all, in fact, in touch with Indian communities, have been invited to take part in the drive in the name of education during the week prior to the opening of school. This policy has been followed several years and has come to be recognized as a definite and important feature of the educational program.

The results of this practice are manifest. Where a few years ago enrollment was a task that taxed the minds and bodies of the workers, it is now a comparatively simple and pleasant one, with the exception of a few isolated sections of the country where the Indians do not yet appreciate the value of education.

For the school year which opened formally September 2, 1934, and closed June 10, 1925, attendance at government schools was good, although not all that was to be desired, and in public schools enrollment was larger than ever before. The trend of attendance toward public schools is quite marked. Each year there is an increasing friendly sentiment on the part of public school officials.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. Jesse D. Holloway sells dozens of it.

HIGHS ANNEX FIRST VICTORY

Local Passers Take Double Bill With Chester Teams.

Before a crowd of students and fans in general that broke all local attendance records for the present season, Wellsville high school passers, both boys and girls, broke into the victory column last night by taking both ends of a double bill from Chester high school teams.

Coach Klinck's boys landed a 22 to 11 decision and the Orange and Black girls finished ahead by a count of 41-10.

Despite the fact that the Wellsville cagers led all the way in the main contest, the game was a battle from start to finish.

The West Virginians sank only three baskets during the evening, with Miller, Pinney and Campbell distributing the honors. Hunter, with three field goals and a foul, and Calhoun, with four two-pointers and three free tossers, led the scorers.

The local boys' and girls' teams are scheduled to play in Columbiana tonight.

SIAM MISSIONARY TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Ralph I. McConnell, missionary to the country of Siam since 1921, will give an address at special services on Sunday evening in the Second Presbyterian church here.

Rev. McConnell is one of the younger generation of missionaries sent out by the Presbyterian church. The work of missionaries in Siam has been among the most difficult of any in the foreign conutries to which missionaries are sent. Many efforts were made to start such work there, according to Rev. Thomas Berger, pastor of the local church, but each in turn was given up. An attempt then was made by the Presbyterian church and after great difficulty, the work began to grow until today Siam is one of the most successful mission fields of the church.

Rev. McConnell, who comes from these fields, will speak in connection with the annual praise service of the Women's Missionary society.

GOLFERS JONES AND HAGEN TO MEET IN MATCH

Thrilling Clash is Promised on Florida Courses.

BEGINS FEB. 28

Locker Room Debates Over Merits to be Settled.

PASADENA, Fla., Feb. 12.—One of the most thrilling matches in recent golf history has been arranged.

Bobby Jones vs Walter Hagen.

These two, the foremost figures in the golf world today, will meet in a 72 hole match play game on February 28, at the Whitefield Country club in Sarasota and finish the game over the Pasadena Golf and Country club course on March 6.

There have been more locker room debates over the relative merits of Bobby Jones, the amateur, and Walter Hagen, the professional, than over anything else in golf.

Jones for the last two years has won the amateur championship of the United States.

Gate Receipts for Hagen.

So it is with Hagen in match play golf. In 1924 he won the professional match play championship at French Lick Springs. Then he repeated at Chicago last September after one of the most remarkable fights in the history of golf.

At the open championship at Worcester last June, Hagen suggested to Jones that if they were fortunate enough to repeat in their match play championships that they have a game in Florida this winter.

Jones expressed the wish that all of the gate reeceipts for the match be given to Hagen. A limited number of tickets would be sold. This gallery will be kept down so that the golfers will be able to do their stuff and those who are fortunate enough to obtain tickets will be able to see the shots played.

U. S. Coast Survey to Chart Hawaii Harbors At Molokai Islands

HONOLULU—The U. S. S. Discoverer, of the coast and geodetic survey, has arrived in Hawaiian waters to conduct hydrographic studies, particularly off the coasts of Kauai and Molokai islands.

The proposed survey off the island of Kauai is considered by local shipping men as of special importance due to the fact that this area lies in the path of vessels traveling between here and the Orient and a number of shoals and rocks are known to be in the vicinity to be studied.

More than 44,000,000 feet of lumber will be used this year in making hogsheads and cases to carry American leaf tobacco products to other parts of the world.

Millinery Broadcasts for Spring

Listen In On Fashion News of Hats for Spring

Station F-A-S-H-I-O-N announces three popular types of Hats for spring--of fabric, felt and crocheted straw. One of the smartest fabrics is grosgrain, which adapts itself easily to the popular beret. Soft felt is bright pastels are tailored and trim, while more formal Hats are of timbal, hair braid or crocheted straw. Draped softly and becomingly, with a careful blending of color, ever Hat is a lovely creation wanting only a wearer.

Moderately Priced

$5.00 $7.50

BERETS are clever little combinations of tam and turban. Soft felts and fabrics are draped with grace and distinction in this style, and narrow upturned brims in front give berets a smartness much in demand.

SHAPES are almost always snug, close-fitting little affairs, but for those who like the larger hat for dress wear there are short-backed capelines in delicate shades.

COLORS are gay that hats may match gay costumes. One's choice is wide, however, ranging from opal gray, black, navy blue and brown to misty pastels of green, rose and yellow. Blues, reds and tans are popular, too.

STILLMANS ACT LIKE THEY ARE ON HONEYMOON

Newspaper Men Greet Banker and Wife in France.

BOTH ARE HAPPY

"Everything Delightfully Vague," They Tell Reporters.

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 12.—Acting the roles of blushing bride and radiant bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman arrived early today on the Olympic for their "autumn honeymoon."

Greeted by a throng of newspapermen, the Stillmans invited them smilingly into Mrs. Stillman's sumptuous Louis sixteenth suite.

"Remember," said Mrs. Stillman, "we haven't seen each other for a long time, not more than three times in the last two years. We are busy gathering up old threads.

"It is true that I have been a student of psycho-analysis for a long time but please do not believe that is entirely responsible for our reconciliation. Mr. Stillman is not as enthusiastic as I am for mental science and I certainly wouldn't try to convince him of anything, certainly not psycho-analysis.

"We are utterly without plans. Everything as yet is delightfully vague. We are letting the future take care of itself."

Await Daughter's Arrival.

"We are awaiting the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davison who are coming from India to Marseilles," Mrs. Stillman continued. "It is just a little family partly and Paris is ideal for such reunions. Maybe we'll hide away in some little place over here. You can't do that in America, of course, because there you belong to the public. But here they wouldn't make much fuss over us, at least, we hope not."

Mrs. Stillman wore a flaming red blouse, embroidered skirt, a small flat hat. She was enveloped in a black cloak with a mink collar. She looked extremely well and appeared to be very happy.

"No," she said in response to a question, "Mr. Stillman has not retired from business, how do you think he could get his bread and butter and buy me pretty clothes?"

Stillman absented himself during a part of the interview and it was evident that the attendant publicity was not entirely to his liking, but when he later rejoined Mrs. Stillman he was most amiable to the little group of correspondents, while he ate his grapefruit.

"It has been a long time since I was in Paris, more than five years," he said.

On Way to Paris.

"No, Jimmie, weren't you over last summer?" interjected Mrs. Stillman.

"That's right, I was almost forgetting," Stillman replied.

Passengers said that the Stillmans had been very quiet throughout the voyage, participating in the shipboard events but little. Mr. Stillman frequently visited Mrs. Stillman in her suite.

The Stillmans spent much time on the voyage reading to each other from "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," passengers said.

Both beaming with happiness, the Stillmans boarded the Paris boat train, taking seats in the same compartment as befitted a honeymoon couple. Their train is due in Paris at 3 this afternoon.

MARSEILLES, Feb. 12. — Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davison, Jr., arrived here today and hastened to Paris to play their important part in effecting the permanent reconciliation of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman. Mrs. Davison, the former Anne Stillman, was so anxious to get to Paris when she disembarked from the Kaisarihind from India, that she would not wait the special boat train but took the regular 9:30 train for Paris, which will permit her to arrive there tonight shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Stillman arrive.

SLAIN BANDIT IS IDENTIFIED

Coroner Exonerates Columbus Confectioner Who Fired Shot.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12.—The lifeless body of the bandit killed here by Ira C. Hunt, while trying to steal $45 from Hunt's grocery and confectionery store Wednesday night, has been identified as that of Jim Christ, alias Jim Charles, alias Jim Fronsno, formerly of Mansfield.

Identification was made by Mrs. Nellie Mackwell and W. A. Shaw, former residents of Mansfield, now living here.

Mrs. Mackwell told police the dead man served time in the Mansfield reformatory for robbing a man at Mansfield of $2,500. She said he held her up and stole some money from her at Mansfield while she was walking home from work at the Crystal stove works.

Police have taken no action against Hunt. Coroner Murphy exonerated Hunt, who asserted he shot in self-defense. The body of the dead highwayman is being held at the Egan undertaking parlors pending completion of burial arrangements.

SLAYER OF TWO IS INDICTED

FREMONT, Feb. 12. — William Clark, 19, of Cleveland, today was indicted on two counts charging murder in the first degree in connection with the slaying of Ralph Hoffman and wife at their farm home near here last Saturday night. An indictment charging robbery also was returned.

Wounds Former Owner, Kills Self After Store Is Raided

Murder and Suicide Follow State Agents' Visit to Fairview Village Grocery and Confectionery.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12. — David Wells, proprietor of a grocery and confectionery store in Fairview village, was dead today by his own hand after he had shot and fatally wounded John Blue, former owner of the place.

The murder and suicide were the direct results of a dry raid staged at Wells' store by state dry agents under the direction of Mayor D. J. Zinner, of Fairview. Agents, tipped off by a woman, found a cleverly concealed liquor cache. Wells was released under $1,000 bond.

Returning to his store, he brooded over the raid, and decided that Blue, who had built the building, was the only man who could have tipped off the raiders.

Blue came to the store, and promised to see if he couldn't "fix things up."

Wells accused Blue of having furnished the raiders with their clue.

"You built the hiding place, when you owned the store," Wells said. "You must have tipped them off."

Heedless of Blue's denials, Wells pulled a gun and fired twice. One bullet brought Blue down.

Wells then fired a shot through his head, dying instantly.

Blue died on his way to the hospital.

The chief will arrive here Wednesday morning direct from the Stillman theatre, Cleveland, where the picture played for two weeks.

He also will make a personal appearance three times daily at the Ceramic theatre.

He also served in the World war and was in the secret service for many years. The chief teaches loyalty, belief in God and Brotherly Love.

From here, he will go east to appear over a big circuit of picture theatres.

TODAY

question is, will the coal strike interfere with President Coolidge? Another election is coming in 1928, and workmen vote, as do more people that can get no coal.

Roosevelt would not have missed such a bright spotlight as the coal strike offers. He would have been right under it, hat in hand, teeth showing, voice loud and clear. And he would have stopped the coal strike. But the people and the workmen have short memories. It is a long way to 1928.

It has been said that suicide is "confession." If a man accused of crime or other disgraceful act kills himself, his death means that he confesses.

Suicide is also cowardice.

All life is a struggle against troubles, disappointments, worries. The man who turns his back on life and seeks a suicide's grave is like a man who turns his back to the enemy in battle and runs.

Courage and religious faith are the force that conquer suicide.

Ireland, among all the world's nations, has the lowest suicide rate, only 2.5 in 100,000.

Temperament, and the outlook on life, sad or optimistic, have something to do with the suicide rate. Suicide is common in Asiatic countries, where the instinct of preservation seems weak, and men make little account of life.

In Japan, most energetic and courageous of the Asiatic nations, the suicide rate is only 17 in 100,000. In Hawaii, where the native population has been gradually dying out, even without the help of suicide, and where the bulk of foreigners is mixed Asiatic, the death rate is very high, 22 in 100,000.

Suicide probably comes most often from sheer boredom, a man tired of life leaves it. Give him something interesting and he clings to life instantly.

If twenty men planning suicide within the next twenty-four hours could be put on a ship, the ship wrecked and the twenty men landed on a raft, they would forget all about suicide. The problems then would be to keep alive and reach the shore. That problem would INTEREST them ,and not one of them would think of dropping overboard purposely.

Life is short. We don't know how we got here or why we came. We don't know where we are going.

Life is interesting with all its trouble. We live in an age of wonderful change, which has seen man move up from the earth and his four-wheeled wagon into the clouds in his flying machine.

No sensible man ought to leave the earth just now. He should wait to see what will happen next.

Prof. Crawford at the Kansas State Agricultural college tells American schools of journalism that for newspapermen "wide reading is also important." It is, indeed—reading of the right kind is for newspapermen as important as right feeding for steers or hogs.

A scientist needs to know ALL about some one thing, it doesn't matter how little he knows about things in general.

The newspaperman needs to know something about everything. He need not necessarily know all about any one thing.

There are twenty books that can add 100 per cent to the value of all newspapermen, and not five per cent of all newspapermen have read them.

COLLEGE HEAD MAKES ADDRESS

President Goodnight of Bethany Speaks Before Student Body.

"I have more faith in the college men and women of today than to believe that, when any of them enter the halls of our congress, they will ever permit such legislation as the new immigration laws to ever be enacted. College men and women have a better inter-racial feeling—and it is this feeling that is one of the expressions of the real religion that they have found," said Dr. Cloyd Goodnight, president of Bethany college, in an address on the "Religion of College Students" delivered before the students and faculty yesterday.

"The day of the big Sunday school convention and the long Christian Endeavor parade has passed, but the real things of the spirit have more power today than they have ever had and a genuine spirit of a wholesome Christian life is in the heart of practically every person on college campuses today. It is the parade of their christianity for parade's sake that makes students revolt," he declared. "The great base lines of Christ's teaching will endure and it will be the college students who will do most to preserve their deep and full significance."

"Flaming Forties," Fine Action Drama, At Strand Theatre

"The Flaming Forties," Harry Carey's latest starring vehicle, at the Strand theatre, excells all other adventures dealing with the eventful days of '49.

Lovers of Bret Harte, who read the old American tale, will be delighted with this screen version, as the well-known star brings the leading character, Bill Jones, to life with so much realism and color that henceforth when we think of "Tennessee's Pardner," we shall visualize Harry Carey in the role, and undoubtedly all who see his splendid performance will do likewise.

The picture is chock full of thrills and typical Carey fights of the "flying fist" variety. The realism with which the renegade Indian attack on the hero has been executed caused several of those around me to gasp audibly last evening.

The sole feminine role is capably handled by Jacquelin Gadsdon, a dark-eyed, "perfect" blonde, and her wistful presence adds materially to the effectiveness of the production.

Civic Investigators For Crime Agencies Assailed by Judge

CHICAGO.—Investigators for civic crime agencies who invade homes in search of evidence were branded "prowlers with right to kick if shot," by United States Commissioner Henry C. Beitler, in dismissing charges brought against Victoria Shaw of violating the prohibition laws.

"I wonder how men like you get by without getting shot," said the Commissioner to Oswald Thompson and Walter M. Scott, representing the Committee of Fifteen. "You are no more than private prowlers."

The two investigators, it was testified, had torn up the Shaw home in search for liquor.

Wore tailor made clothes of latest design.
In leaving Pop's Inn, stepped on the cement,
Didn't notice the ice—and away his heels went!

'Twas muddy and icy and wet where he sat;
He smilingly said: "I see at a glance
This preacher sure needs a pair of dry pants!"

Critics Profess To See Finish Of Tilden's Tennis Reign

Execution On Court Lacking In Accuracy

Efforts at Emulating John Barrymore Have Made Him a Nervous Wreck, is Claim; Has Lost Much of The Surety of Touch That Has Featured His Play in Other Years.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Some of the less feeble minded of our intelligentsia today claimed to have observed a distinctly sub-normal tendency in the day-to-day game exhibited by William T. Tilden, greatest tennis player of the ages ,and intimates that they feared the worst for William when he steps out with the French in the national indoor tennis championships next week.

These calamitous views of Tilden are getting to be something of a habit, but this time it may be that they have some basis of fact: Tilden, the actor-writer-player, seems to have lost much of the surety of touch that has featured his play in other years, according to capable observers who have watched his daily practics at the Heights casino.

They say he is a victim of nerves, brought on by his somewhat unsuccessful efforts to make John Barrymore throw away his grease pot in high dudgeon. So far, John hasn't deigned to throw anything even in a low dudgeon and is being stoutly encouraged in this attitude by the dramatic cricites, who seem to have confounded our Mr. Tilden's acting with something in the nature of a double fault at a very critical juncture.

Adverse criticism and the nightly effort necessary for putting over the great message to his public are being blamed for the fact that Tilden's execution on the courts seem to have lost some of its accuracy. He probably will not need any more than all of it next week.

For one thing, they have dropped him in the lower half of the draw and he must beat Jean Borotra, of France, probably the most dangerous man in the tournament, before he can hope to get as far as the semi-final round. A lot of the wise money will ride with Borotra in this tournament, in spite of the fact that he is bracketed with Tilden in the upper half of the second flight.

The indoor courts happen to be this young man's happy hunting ground. Beaten time and again outdoors by his team mate, Rene Lacoste, Borota recently rushed right over Lacoste in the covered court championship of France. Lacoste may be the better tennis player, although this is open to doubt after the way both played Tilden to a standstill in the Davis cap matches last year, but Borotra reigns supreme on the boards.

Tilden, of course, has been beaten before and no one sat up to ring the Liberty bell at midnight. The defeats came in events of minor importance, however. For six years, Tilden hasn't lost a match he really desired to win. He will want to win next week.

CROMWELL HAS HOPE FOR TITLE

Sees National Track Honors in Squad of 64 Athletes.

By Copeland C. Burg.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—Coach Dean Cromwell of the University of Southern California believes he has a bright chance to again win the national track title despite the fact the "heavy-heavy" hangs over his head in the form of the eligibility axe.

Sixty-four athletes are in Cromwell's squad this spring and of the men who went East last season to cop national honors, only three are missing.

Off-setting these point-scorers, Cromwell has Lee Barnes, Olympic pole vault champion, who comes up from freshman ranks.

Showing Good Form.

Bud Houser, Olympic shotput champion, is showing splendid form. Leighton Dye in the hurdles; Kenny Grubles, low hurdler; Percy Neirsbach, half-miler, are evidencing early workouts which make them loom as in the money men at the national meet this year in Boston.

The Trojans will be weakest in the sprints.

Hershel Smith, who won the national junior A. A. U. dash, is fighting for first honors on the Southern California squad with Brice Taylor, the colored star. Ed. House, John Parsons and Jack O'Malley complete Cromwell's present dash material.

Ralph Shawhan, formerly at Ames, Iowa, is showing well in the mile.

Morton Kaer, football star, is out in the quarter-mile hurdles and javelin events, and Hobbs Adams, another gridiron performer, is Cromwell's chief threat with Houser in the hammer throw.

Meets Scheduled.

The return to college of Arden Hughes strengthens the Trojans' quarter and half-mile material. McDaniels, Wallace and Bruce Smith are also available in the quarter and Vose Adams, Harold Lovejoy and Percey Neirsbach will compete in teh half with Hughes.

Kaer and William Cook are tossing the javelin more than 180 feet and four others are only a few feet behind them.

The Trojans will have plenty of competition before leaving for Boston to defend their national title. They start the season February 20 against Occidental college, then meet Stanford at Palo Alto and California here. A meet with Arizona is also contemplated and another meet against Southern California conference schools is also in the making for the late spring.

M. P.'S DEFEAT ST. STEPHENS

Victors Have Easy Sailing in Last Half.

Forced to the limit to finish the first half two points ahead, the M. P. passers of the Sunday school circuit last night went on a scoring spree in the last half, defeating the St. Stephens quint, 48 to 21, with two of the Fourth street lads out on account of personal fouls.

The clash was anybody's battle in the first half, the count being 14 to 12 at the end of the first two quarters. Play became heated in the second half. Manypenny and Cordwin of the St. Stephens five went out on personal fouls and several of the M. P. quint were on the verge. The M. P.'s assaulted the basket viciously and ran away with the game.

Despite the absence of four players the Power basketball team managed to hang up its 18th victory of the campaign Wednesday night, defeating the Glenmore team by the score of 23 to 6.

The scoring of Bucher and the playing of the other Power passers featured the tilt. The count at the first half was 14 to 2. In the pre-campaign Wednesday night, defeat the girls' centralized school quint, 52-18.

The Powers will play Saturday night on the high school court meeting the Homer Laughlin 6 team in a preliminary to the Canton Heimie Collegians game.

WESLEYAN FIVE AT MARIETTA

MARIETTA, Feb. 12.—The second meeting of the Marietta college and West Virginia Wesleyan basketball teams is scheduled for tonight at the Pioneer City.

Having invaded the lair of the Wesleyan "Bobcats" and routed them earlier in the season Marietta expects to duplicate the performance in the second contest. They are by no means overconfident, however, for since then Wesleyan has scored a win against West Virginia among a string of victories and right now are at the top of their form.

RIVALS LAND EASY MATCHES

Wills and Lenglen Show Speed in Today's Game.

By Frederick K. Abbott.

CANNES, France, Feb. 12.—Helen Wills has not suffered from her three-day lay-off due to rain. The California girl demonstrated this today when she ran away with her match with Mrs. O'Neil in the Carlton club singles, defeating her, 6-0, 6-0.

Mrs. O'Neil was never in the running and the American girl demonstrated her speediest game.

Mlle. Lenglen looked just as good as ever also, and she had no difficulty in winning her match, 6-0, 6-0, from Miss Moss.

The form displayed by the two stars today has aroused even greater enthusiasm in their projected match, and it is freely predicted that the Lenglen-Wills match will be one of the best in the history of tennis.

BRODT PROBLEM FOR BOLES' FIVE

WOOSTER, Feb. 12.—Can the Wooster defense stop the scoring of Steve Brodt, Akron University forward? That is the big question before Coaches Boles and Hole, of the Wooster basketball squad, as they prepare the players for the game with Akron University here Saturday evening.

However, that isn't the only worry the Wooster mentors have. Captain Pfeiffer and Blough, Wooster's forwards, are both off form. Pfeiffer is nursing a pulled muscle in his left leg which kept him out of the early practices of the week. Blough's hand, in which a blood vessel was ruptured in the Reserve game, still bothers him. Wooster expects to have both men in the lineup against Akron but neither is expected to be in his best form.

A. The states in existence at the time of the drafting of the constitution of the United States had constitutions of their own and it was upon these that the federal one was patterned. All the states, however, in their modern constitutions retain many of the principles and much of the framework of the older documents.

Paris Makes Profit On Arts Exposition During Past Year

PARIS—The city of Paris finds itself 1,200,000 francs richer from the direct proceeds of the Exposition of Decorative Arts. Fifty million more francs than in the corresponding period of 1924 was taken in by the autobuses, street cars and subways during the exposition. A good share of this will also find its way into the municipal coffers.

This is contrary to expositions of the past. In 1878 the city furnished 6,000,000 francs as her share in the exposition of that year and only received 450,000 francs in return.

Then again in 1900 the city played angel to the extent of 20,000,000 francs and only saw 3,637,903 francs returned.

Salvation Army Files Court Action Against Building Contractor

CINCINNATI—One of the oddest suits ever to reach the local courts was filed here by the Salvation Army which seeks to enjoin a contractor from further work on a moving picture theater next door to the Catherine Booth maternity home.

The injunction was a new indictment of jazz.

The petition alleged that jazz if played in close proximity to a maternity hospital, will implant "jazz emotions" in babies yet unborn

"Plaintiffs realize that they live in a jazz age," the petition said, "but they are loathe to believe that babies unborn in a maternity hospital are to be subjected legally to the implanting of the jazz emotion and all that it means by such enforced close proximity to a theater and jazz palace."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Appeals for pictures have been made to the Auckland Art society by the Institute for the Blind at Auckland, N. Z., directors saying that children partially blind are much interested in paintings and that those totally without sight take a pride in the art exhibits.

After A Bath With Cuticura Soap Dust With Cuticura Talcum

Delicately Medicated Of Pleasing Fragrance

3x3—?

The school teacher had asked Johnny, "How much is three times three?", to which Johnny promptly replied, "Nine!"

"Very good," commented the teacher.

"What da yuh mean 'very good'?" demanded Johnny; "THAT'S PERFECT!"

And that's the way we feel about the "new and entirely different" Werk's Washing Machine Soap. A simple, half-hearted "very good" does not apply, because only an enthusiastic "PERFECT!" comes anywhere near doing it justice.

"WERK'S WASHING MACHINE SOAP — PERFECT" represents absolutely the last and highest word in soap construction for use in washing machine or washbowl laundering of dainty, silken lingerie. "It Pours Like Sugar."

Solons Authorize Expenditure of $800 On City Incinerator

City council has authorized Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to make repairs to the municipal garbage incinerator at the foot of Washington street, estimated to cost approximately $800.

The solons, at the invitation of the server-safer, recently viewed the disposal plant.

A new furnace would cost between $14,000 and $16,000. A Cambridge clay concern has offered to furnish materials necessary to repair the present furnace for $300. Labor and other equipment would mean an added expense of about $500, it is estimated. When these repairs are completed, the furnace will be in workable condition for at least two years.

The furnace will be closed for approximately a week or 10 days while the repairs are in progress.

Breweries of Chile are being equipped with used machinery from the United States.

College Physicians Study Spine of Rat To Cure Paralysis

CHICAGO—The first step of a long list of experiments leading to the solution of the infantile paralysis problem, one of the most baffling in modern research, has been taken by two University of Chicago physiologists.

Drs. W. W. Gerard and Theodore Koppanyi, it is announced, cut the spinal cord of a rat in the pre-natal stage and found that the lesion had completely healed at birth. This is the first time in medical history that the spinal cord of a mammal has regenerated and one of the few instances where operations have been successfully performed on animals in the pre-natal state.

The connection between the experiment and infantile paralysis, it was pointed out, is that if it can be ascertained what chemical changes determine regeneration of the spinal cord fibers control of infantile paralysis, in which actual destruction of the nerve cells in the cord occurs, may be possible.

American Youth is Free, Happy And Progressive, Author Finds

Fritz Zielesch, German Publicist, Reviews in Book His Experiences With Boy and Girl Organizations.

BERLIN.—"American youth is free, happy, and progressive," says Fritz Zielesch, German publicist, in a book entitled "Youth in the Land of Youth."

The book is a vivid description of what the author during a trip to the states saw of the various branches of American Youth Movement. It has been praised as a "bridge between the youth of two worlds, only a few days apart, technically speaking, but still apart for years concerning the way of thinking," by Dr. K. O. Bertling, director of Berlin America Institute.

Reviewing his experiences with the various American Youth organizations including Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, college boys and girls, etc., the author points out the difference of mind between American and German youths as follows:

"Americans make use of nature as a means of recreation. Nature is no secret for them. They enjoy it without emotion or lust or adventure. German youth form their own individual opinion on life, world, political institutions and economic doctrines. Their individualism develops a mind which is in striking contrast to the notions and opinions of grown-up peopel. This is entirely different with Americans, where everybody wants to be 'just a boy, or just a girl.' America has solved the problem of remaining young throughout life."

Dwelling on the different meaning of "education' in both countries, the author says that young Americans are brought up with the purpose of making out of them good citizens and useful members of human society. This is achieved by a standardization of educational methods which "makes" Americans all alike.

Burning leather gives an odor that is a protection against infectious diseases, declares a Vienna physician who points to the fact that shoemakers of that city escaped the cholera plague several years ago by lighting scraps of leather in their homes.

"One Way Street" Is Screen Feature At the American

"One Way Street," one of the year's sensations in the literary field, is the screen offering at the Aemrican theater, with Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson in the featured roles. The picture was produced by First National from the novel by Beade Davis—a novel which, within a month after its publication, had bounded up into the best-seller class.

If it is true that "the story's the thing," then "One Way Street" should be the success of the year, for it boasts of a plot that is unusually strong and unique. The author has fashioned a tale that, while gripping in its suspense and universal in its theme, yet was particularly adaptable for screening.

The story is that of a famous opera singer who at the heighth of her career had the world worshipping at her feet. The possessor of a magnetic personality and of much charm and beauty, she found life glorious and exhilarating. Her admirers were legion and they counted it a privilege to honor her every desire.

But the years passed. The beauty of her face faded slowly and the influence she exerted ebbed away. With bitterness the singer realized that she was treading the "One Way Street" of youth. Suddenly she disappeared.

Years later a fascinating woman, with a natural bloom on her cheeks and alive with the vigor of youth, made her appearance in London so her past, for she never spoke of it. cial circles. Nothing was known of But the jealous women of her set were puzzled, for this woman resembled the opera singer who had disappeared.

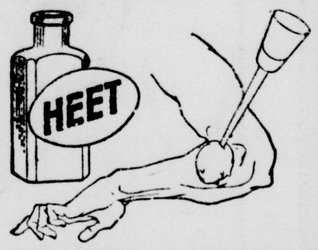

Men fell under her sway and succumbed—men of all ages.

There was one youth in particular that she set about to captivate. He succumbed to her ardent approaches and then—

The attempt of the woman to ruin the youth when he came to his senses and repulsed her; the revelation of her identity, and the sudden transformation of the woman into a hideous hag during a stage performance combine to make the climax of the story one of the most powerful ever conceived in the brain of an author.

GAS IN STOMACH HURTS THE HEART

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 13 years.

SCIENTISTS DECIDE TO BLAME OUR STUPID FEARS ON BILLION ANCESTORS

CHICAGO.—When Johnny has a tantrum and refuses to eat his porridge, mother says he's like his father.

Well, mama is right in a sense, only she shouldn't have stopped with Johnny's immediate paternal ancestor. Mamma should have gone back at least thirty generations or 1,000 years, and then perhaps she would have been nearer the mark.

Professor George Herbert Betts, psychologist at Northwestern university, has just completed an interesting study involving sixty of his students and a large amount of research, and his analysis of the test reveals some interesting facts.

Fear of the dark, Professor Betts explains, is predominant in 80 per cent of all children.

Why?

"We must go back generations," he answers, "back ages, back cycles of time—back through the links of the chain of heredity that binds us to our parents, our grand-parents, great-grand-parents, and so on backward to the earliest life from which we sprang.

"Think for a moment what this means. The child in the home today has two parents. Each of these had two, thus giving the child four grandparents. The fourth generation back gives the child sixteen ancestors; the fifth, thirty-two, and so on. Go back thirty generations, less than 1,000 years, and the blood of more than a billion ancestors converges to make your child what he is today.'

Because the supply has been cut off for some unknown reason, pupils of the Aberdeenshire (Australia) school have had to carry water to school

Chicago Crime Wave Is Growing Menace; Murders on Increase

CHICAGO — Crime's constantly growing menace to Chicago—a menace that is shown by a jump in murders from 194 in 1920 to 352 in 1925 and an annual crime bill that now totals $60,000,000 annually—is to be fought by alarmed public spirited citizens.

Charging that the police and sheriff's forces have been backed up against the wall and the courts have broken down, 27 of the leading civic and business organizations of the city have adopted a program of federating all anti-crime activities and voted a yearly war-chest of $500,000 to carry it out.

"The Chicago Association for Criminal Justice" is in the making as a result. Its efforts will be directed first toward an investigation of civil as well as criminal courts, then co-operation with the officials in fighting crime.

ROAD PROGRAM BEING FRAMED

County Commissioners Busy Shaping Plans for Summer.

During the last few days the county commissioners have been giving considerable consideration to the 1926 road program, and for the purpose of advancing legislation as much as possible in order that contracts can be awarded and work on the different highways started as early as possible.

In addition to the county program, various township trustees are beginning to lay plans for road construction under the provisions of the Green law, which provides for the expenditure of $1,000 per mile of state aid.

The board of commissioners is now considering the construction of an improved road from New Waterford to Humtown, where a connection will be made with the new East Liverpool-Youngstown road, the northern part of the latter road being on the program for completion this year. Plans for the north section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road have been approved by the commissioners and have been forwarded to the state highway department at Columbus for approval.

The improvement of the Salineville-Summitville road this year is also to be put over, according to the plans of the commissioners. This latter route will pass through a section of Carroll county, but the commissioners of that county are agreed that Columbiana county award the contract for the whole job. Carroll county will share in the cost so far as it refers to Fox township.

GOOD FARM YEAR IS ANTICIPATED

"Indications are that 1926 will be a good year," declared Serice Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm bureau, who has just received advance reports from the United States department of Agriculture on this industry.

It has been pointed out in these reports that although profits are likely to be less than during the past two years, there may also be a slackening in the general demand for lambs. It is also pointed out by Mr. Heim that a further increase in production of sheep may be undertaken profitably in this county, on account of its closeness to the Cleveland and Pittsburgh markets.

Shipments of live stock from this county during the last few weeks has been low, due to the condition of the roads, it being almost impossible for farmers to get stock to loading stations. With the opening of weather conditions, there will be a decided increase in live stock shipping from all stations in this county, Mr. Heim has declared.

LODGE INSPECTION HERE TONIGHT

The annual inspection of New Lisbon lodge No. 65 F. & A. M. will be held in the Lisbon Masonic hall tonight. The event will be preceded by a banquet, which will be served by the ladies of Ivy chapter, Eastern Star of Lisbon. About 100 visiting members of the Masonic fraternity are expected to attend.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to Joe Clark of Bergholz, a coal miner and Miss Olive Burnip, a pottery worker at Salineville, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burnip. The couple were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church by the Rev. W. E. Tilton.

Motion Overruled.

A motion to strike out certain parts of the petition has been overruled by Judge Eastman in the case of H. Mitchell Gunder against Francis Zeigler, which was filed June 9, 1924, to recover $840 claimed to be due the plaintiff from the defendant for room and board.

Demurrer Sustained.

The demurrer has been sustained in the case of A. H. Ketterer and others against John Kaminsky and others, filed March 20, 1925, to recover a claim by the court at the costs of the plaintiff.

Receiver Named.

John Miller has been appointed receiver for the business in the case of Glenn Hawkins against L. F. Godfred and others, which was filed in common pleas court Nov. 11th last, seeking an injunction and dissolution of partnership.

Petition Dismissed.

The answer to the petition of the plaintiff has been withdrawn and the cross petition dismissed in the divorce action filed in common pleas court Aug. 10, 1925, by Russell Kitchell against his wife Mayme Mitchell.

Spatholt; secretary-treasurer, Joseph Calladine. Directors chosen were: C. E. Greenamyer, Joseph Calladine, R. A. Cavanaugh, J. M. Beilhart, George C. Johnson, C. J. Spatholt and George Russell.

JAPAN BOOSTS TOBACCO PRICE; PUBLIC ANGRY

Widespread Opposition May Have Effect on Elections.

PEOPLE WARNED

Increase on "Weed" Amounts to 20 Per Cent.

TOKIO.—Prices of tobacco have been arbitrarily increased in Japan by the government monopoly bureau and a wave of resentment is sweeping the nation. So serious and so widespread is public opposition to the increase that political observers predict it will affect the fortunes of the Kato ministry in the general election which is expected early in 1926.

The increase, which amounts to 20 per cent on practically all grades of tobacco, was put into effect without warning. The Monopoly Bureau announced at 11 o'clock at night on November 6, that the increase would go into effect as of midnight the same night. Early morning purchasers at the tobacco shops who had failed to read the newspapers were dumfounded when told that they must pay more for their favorite brand of cigarettes, cigars or smoking tobacco.

Helps National Treasury.

It was explained by the Monopoly bureau that the raise was effected to bring about an increase of 15,000,000 yen in the income of the bureau in order to make up a deficit in the total income of the national treasury resulting from reduction or abolition of certain other taxes. It was intimated, also, that the bureau is considering an increase in the price of sake, the national beverage, and other alcoholic drinks.

Almost immediately a public outcry was raised against the increase. It was denounced as unjustifiable and unwise. Influential newspapers and politicians were outspoken in condemning the action of the government as imposing an unnecessary burden upon a vast majority of the people. "The people suffer" was the keynote of editorial comment in the leading newspapers.

Poor Bear Burden.

"Tobacco may be a luxury," commented the Osaka Asahi, "but it is largely consumed by poor people in order that they may relieve themselves from the fatigue of hard labor. The tax upon tobacco is a consumption duty and the burden borne by wealthy persons is light, whereas it is heavy upon poor men. The raising of the price on the excuse of tobacco's being a luxury is questionable."

"The raising of tobacco prices is a great mistake nad an unjustifiable measure," declared Jiji Shimpo, an influential Takyo newspaper. "Apart from the question whether tobacco is a luxury, the cigars, cigarettes and tobacco which the Mononoly bureau manufactures are, no doubt the worst in the world, yet the government already realize an annual profit, of 129,205,000 yen from this source. This is a serious burden on our economic life and a further increase simply adds to the economic burdens of the people.'

Political Aspect.

The political aspect of the situation arise through the passage of the universal manhood suffrage law a year ago which increased the number of voters in Japan by about 10,000,000. A majority of these new voters are people of small income who feel most keenly the effect of any increase in the cost of nevessary commodities. That these people will not forget that it was the Kato ministry that raised the price of tobacco when they march to the polls is the general opinion in political circles.

Frenchman, in Flood, Saves Mattress First

Paris.—The recent floods have produced abundant illustration of the fact that the first household article which the Frenchman rescues when his home is threatened with inundation is the mattress. Strangely enough, the bicycle comes second.

Hardly an exception to this order was noted by a correspondent who watched boatmen moving the inhabitants from one of the Paris suburbs. The women were dry eyed and stern visaged as they were taken from their flooded homes, but obviously were laboring under great emotional stress.

"This is getting monotonous," said one woman who was forced to move to escape the floods in 1910, 1920 and 1924. "This sort of thing might be bearable once in fifty wears, but four times in fifteen years is a little too much."

New steamers across the English Channel have glass-sided lounges instead of the old open decks.

After Sickness Get Strong Quick

New Pleasant Way to Take Cod Liver Oil—Puts on Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound. Tablets—60 Tablets—50 cents.

Vet Would Give Away $1,221 Won After Fight

New York.—For nearly seven years Solomon Harper, negro ex-soldier, struggled with the veterans' bureau. He was indefatigable. Now that he has what he set out to get, he wants to give it away. He proposes to give away his adjusted service certificate ($1,221) to establish a scholarship fund to help other youths, regardless of race or religion, to get education.

Harper hopes his example will lead other veterans to make some use of their bonus awards. He has a loan-and-insurance plan whereby the fund would replenish itself.

A year ago things were dark for Solomon Harper. He had attended every school within a day's ride of New York, and he had received no bonus award. Nevertheless, he wanted to send President Coolidge a Merry Christmas telegram. He did and all at once things happened; he received a certificate of graduation in engineering, his bonus, and everything he desired.

KIRBY'S PRICES SLAUGHTERED

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL By EDGAR PAGE NOBLE WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

SEVENTY-THREE.

Noble's words reverberated in Laurel's ears: "Oh, give me a chance to prove my love, to show you that I'm not—oh, that you mean more more to me than any one else in the world, more than any one else could possibly mean."

He was waiting, his mouth compressed tensely, for her answer.

Pages of the book she had been reading curled over and lost her place. The poodle yawned and flopped down on the floor, panting. The little clock upon Mother Todd's desk ticked with dulling regularity.

"I don't know, Noble, I don't know," she murmured at last. Irresistibly her eyes were drawn to his face again. The scars of debauch were plainer now. There was a dark hollow under his lustreless eyes, a sag in his cheeks, drawn wrinkles around his mouth. Age was written deeply in his whole countenance. . . . Did she, could she, love him now? She got up, wanting to leave him, to be alone. She halted at a window and gazed out blankly.

"I know I've been a fool," he repeated for what seemed to be the thousandth time.

Laurel wheeled about. "I wonder if you have been a fool, or just Noble Harwood?"

He winced at this. "I ought to hate you for that," he answered quietly, with the effect of submissiveness, "but I don't, because I love you."

Slowly she came back and sat down opposite him. "You said a minute or two ago that I should not have gone off without giving you a chance to speak and so forth. Do you want me to believe that this is the only woman you have insulted me by knowing, since our marriage?"

"I don't know what you mean." Her searching eyes held his captive.

"You think I don't know what happened in New York on our honeymoon," she said, with irony in her tone. "I closed my eyes, resolving to think that it wasn't true, when my senses told me that it was."

Noble's glance fell momentarily, but rose to hers challengingly. "That's a lie. I—" He paused as a hand went up commandingly.

"Can you look me in the eyes and tell me that from the day of our marriage you have committed no act of unfaithfulness toward me, have harbored no unfaithful thought, have looked at no woman with eyes of desire?"

"That isn't fair, Laurel. Marriage doesn't keep even the most faithful husband from looking at a pretty woman."

"You are evading the question."

For a long time he looked squarely into her unrelenting eyes. Then his glance wavered. "No," he said hesitatingly, "I can't say that, but believe me, dear, oh, do believe me, I love no one but you. No one can mean anything to me but you. Please believe me."

In her eyes he had become a pleading old man. If he had been strong or even defiant she could have respected him; but not now.

"You must give me time to think." She wanted him to go away.

Perhaps he sensed the trend of her thoughts, for he drew himself up into a semblance of his old bearing. "I have humbled myself to you, Laurel, although I do not think I am entirely wrong. . . . I am going now. I want to do what is right. I will meet any demand you make upon me, because there is a child we must consider. It is the child I am thinking of now.

"Remain here a few days if you like, but remember, please, that you are still my wife."

He took his hat and moved toward the door, while her eyes stared blindly out of the window to the bright world beyond. What was her duty to her child? Should she consign herself to a life of doubtful happiness and probable misery just for the baby's sake?

At the door Noble turned hesitantly and faced her again. "I want to say again, Laurel, that I love you. . . Just tell me, dear, that it isn't impossible for you ever to love me wholeheartedly again."

She did not want to answer him; her heart protested. But out the words came, "No, Noble, it isn't impossible."

"Good-bye, dear." He closed the door behind him without knowing whether she replied.

Noble was not much beyond the gate when Bernice came striding up the stairs two at a time to burst into Laurel's room.

"What did you decide?" she asked excitedly.

"Oh, don't ask me, don't ask me!" Tears suddenly welling into her eyes, Laurel ran to the door and fled down the back stairs into the garden. With each step her mind told her that she must get away from here, from Central City.

She knew now that she couldn't stand the staring questioning eyes of the city when she finally did venture forth.

She had been there perhaps an hour, sitting disconsolately upon a stone bench beside the sun dial, her mind hot with thoughts of the past and suggestions of the future, when Mother Todd came to her.

"I'm not here to satisfy my curiosity," the elder woman said. "I wanted to suggest that you go for a quiet automobile ride with me this afternoon. I always have a car from the Central garage on Wednesday. We could go down Mill Creek valley. It would do you good."

"All right." Anything would be a relief from this house which she was beginning to hate.

"Wyman Holt came to the door a few minutes ago. I told him he couldn't see you."

"I wish you would make Bernice leave me alone. I can't stand her."

"I have to keep her here so she'll keep her mouth shut. I'll try to keep her quiet." Mother Todd went back toward the house.

A figure whose eyes watched her retreating figure rustled the hedge at Laurel's side. Laurel turned, startled. She glimpsed Wyman Holt's face, and got up.

"Wait, Laurel! Don't go! I just had to see you!"

How Suicide Varies.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Russian peasants are having a chance for the first time in Russia's history, and they now own land on which they were once slaves. Everybody knows that. But Russia gets even, in her silly communistic press. The Bolsheviki today are reading that American wives and children of striking coal miners are dying of hunger in thousands.

Perhaps they read that our coal barrons use the dead bodies for fertilizer. We swallowed such yarns about the Germans, and wrose. One striker's wife did die of hunger. A few Russian peasants may be very hungry, through crop failure, which is bad enough. But millions died of starvation in India and in Ireland, without Bolshevism to help.

Italy's ambassador has left Berlin and D'Annunzio, hero and poet in war, silly flatterer in peace, fires off 27 cannon shots in honor of Mussolini's threat to whip Germany.

Thus we change. Italy was Germany's ally when the big war started. At least Germany thought so. In 1913 Italy's threat to whip Germany would have amused the "all highest," and his boy, the crown prince, with the "zum Tag" proclivities, would have been much heated up. Now it is different, and Germany will find a sensible, peaceful way out of the situation. Meanwhile Mussolini, who knows that a successful distator must dictate, enjoys dictating to Germany, strengthening greatly his hold on power by [illegible] ag.

Do You Know How To Make Pecan Pralines?

Creole candies occupy a unique position among confections in this country and the most popular of all is the pecan praline.

Most people have the erroneous idea that pralines are difficult to prepare and that the necessary ingredients are costly.

This is not at all true. One pound of brown sugar, one-half pound of pecans, one spoon of butter, and four tablespoonfuls of water will make a goodly supply of pralines.

Try your hand at this candy making. The recipe, along with over 70 other Creole recipes, is contained in the Creole Cook Book which this bureau has for free distribution.

Wellsville Mayor Demands Police Chief's Resignation

John W. Fultz, Refusing to Comply With Fogo's Request, Retains Attorneys for Court Fight.

Mayor W. L. Fogo, Wellsville, today demanded the resignation of Chief of Police John W. Fultz.

Refusing to acquiesce with the chief executive's request during a short conference at 10 o'clock this morning in the city hall, Fultz was notified by the mayor that his services will be dispensed with on February 15.

Claiming that Mayor Fogo refused to outline reasons for his actions, Fultz declared that he would not quit the job.

As a result of Fultz's stand, Fogo is expected to file charges with the civil service commission.

Fultz has retained Attorneys W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and Ben L. Bennett and Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool.

For a period of five years Fultz has been head of Wellsville police, succeeding former Chief John Reil, at present a councilman-at-large and serving under Mayors George Ingram, A. P. Dennis, the late James Barnes and Frank C. Blackburn.

The following statement was made by Fultz, this morning, through his counsel, W. A. O'Grady:

"In accordance with the pre-election rumors of Honorable W. L. Fogo, mayor of Wellsville, he has requested the undersigned to resign his position as chief of police without offering any reasons therefor.

"I have refused to accede to the request and have asked that he show cause why my office should be vacated. If charges are presented in legal form against me, I desire that the public hold their opinion in abeyance until such time as will enable me to refute the same in accordance with procedure established by law.

"JOHN H. FULTZ,
"Chief of Police."

"I refuse to be quoted on anything."

This was Mayor W. L. Fogo's answer at 1:45 today to questions concerning his request for the resignation of Fultz. Fogo refused to outline any course of action he may be contemplating.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS STATE O. K. OF EXTRA LEVY TO PAY BILLS

Act Under Baxter Law to Liquidate $30,000 Debt.

REPORT DEFICIT

Taxes Outside Limitation Will be Collected For Five Years.

A deficiency of approximately $30,000 in school funds, incurred prior to January 1, last, will be liquidated by issuance of certificates of indebtedness under provisions of the Baxter tax relief law, the board of education decided at a special meeting last night.

Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer, was instructed to file with the state auditor a statement of the school board funds on December 31, 1925. In order to meet the December pay roll the board borrowed $25,000 while more than $5,000 other bills were unpaid.

Upon receipts of approval of the state auditor, the board will issue certificates of indebtedness, or deficiency bonds. The county aduitor will be instructed to increase the school levy for a period of five years to pay for these bonds. This levy will be outside of the limitation provided for school purposes.

May Ask Fall Vote on Levy.

Ordinarily a vote of the electors is necessary for an extraordinary levy, but the Baxter bill, passed a few weeks ago by the state legislature obviates this move.

The increased levy will mean only a fraction of a mill, school board members said. It will be payable in June.

School boards and municipalities, acting under the Baxter act, must file their statement of indebtedness with the state auditor not later than April 1.

By cancelling all debts which existed at the end of 1925, the school board is enabled to begin the 1926 school year with a clean slate. With this debt wiped out, the shortage at the end of the year will be reduced from approximately $80,000 to $50,000.

The electors may be asked to approve an additional levy at the November election.

OPERATORS AND MINERS WILL SETTLE DISPUTE AT PHILADELPHIA MEET

Warring Factions Bury Hatchet and Leaders Will Attach Signatures to Five-Year Contract at Joint Conference This Afternoon, According to Reliable Information Given Out in Washington.

SECRETARY OF LABOR J. J. DAVIS INSTRUMENTAL IN CALLING PARLEY.

Cabinet Member Happy as Men Promise to Return to Work on Present Wage Scale, Thus Ending Longest and Most Bitterly Contested Hard Coal Strike in History.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The miners' coal scale committee today ratified the peace pact between the operators and miners to end the hard coal strike without modifying any of the proposed terms.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—An agreement between operators and miners to end the long hard coal strike will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon, it was learned from a reliable source this morning.

"STRIKE IS SETTLED"—STATEMENT ISSUED BY GOVERNOR PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—"The anthracite strike is settled."

This was the statement made by Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today.

"I am able to make the announcement because I have been in touch with negotiations.

"I make this statement with profound thankfulness. The settlement will restore prosperity in the anthracite region and bring relief and comfort to millions of American homes."

The warring factions have agreed to the settlement plan and leaders of the operators and miners will attach their signatures to the agreement at a joint conference called for 1 o'clock. The settlement will be based on a new five-year contract and the miners will return to work on the present wage scale.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis was instrumental in bringing the operators and miners together. The settlement plan was carried by Davis to the cabinet meeting this morning, and was received with satisfaction by President Coolidge and his advisers.

Additional details of the settlement were not divulged.

End Bitter Contest.

The agreement will bring to an end the longest anthracite strike in history, and one of the most bitterly contested.

Davis has been quietly endeavoring for weeks to bring the warring factions together. His efforts were surrounded with great secrecy because of the unwillingness of President Coolidge to openly have the federal government intervene in the situation. The president, however, is understood to have been cognizant of Davis' "unofficial" efforts.

Davis was radiant when he entered the cabinet meeting. In response to questions on the strike, he said:

"I believe this coal strike is at an end. I believe an agreement will be signed in Philadelphia this afternoon."

Conference is Called.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—Chairman Alvan Markle called a new conference of the joint negotiating committee of anthracite miners and operators to meet today at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Bellevue-Stratford.

The call issued through James A. Gorman, secretary of the joint conference, was made this morning immediately before the full scale committee of miners convened here to consider a new proposal submitted by the operators.

FOUR POINTS OF AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The peace agreement in the anthracite strike, to be signed at Philadelphia this afternoon by joint committees of the operators and miners, consists of four principal points:

They are:

1.—A five-year wage contract.

2.—The wage agreement is to be re-opened at any time at the request of either party. Wages are to remain the same unless changed by mutual consent.

3.—Arbitration is to be eliminated from the contract.

4.—A dues collecting arrangement is to be perfected which will not be known as the check-off, but which will amount to the same thing.

TWO SENATORIAL VIEWS OF LESSONS TO BE DRAWN BY PRESENT GENERATION FROM LIFE OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 'THE GREAT EMANCIPATOR'

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—Across the sands of time, the figure of Abraham Lincoln stands out as a great beacon to all lovers of human liberty. On this anniversary of his birth, the Review-Tribune herewith presents two senatorial views of the lessons to be drawn by the present generation from the life of the "Great Emancipator." The conservative Republican and Liberal Democrat alike, the inspiration from Lincoln's life is found in his indomitable will that righ should win and in his rise from obscure poverty to the highest honor within the possession of his countrymen.)

BY SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON,
(Republican, of Indiana.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—One of the guiding stars in our history is Abraham Lincoln, the savior of the Union.

The preservation of the Union and enfranchisement of a race were never aught but spiritual. The heroism of that period bespoke the utter abandonment of all things else save only an indissoluble nation and the freedom of all beneath the flag.

The constitution was framed by the trained intellects and the master statesmen of their day for all time to come, but the emancipation proclamation was the product of the inspired genius of one lone man.

Inspiration to All Youth.

This day we pay our heartfelt tribute of respect to the lofty morality, the exalted patriotism and the unswerving devotion to country of Abraham Lincoln, whose life like a bow of promise yet spans and arches all the clouds of war. He towers among us like some solitary peak that has no fellow in all the mountain range of greatness.

The life of Lincoln should be an inspiration to all the youth of the land. He was reared in extreme poverty, amidst the hard conditions of frontier life, with scant opportunities for schooling, and with meager chances for ever touching the lives of other youths.

His whole life illustrates the success that comes to right purpose backed by indomitable courage. He was beaten for the legislature the first time he ran; was denied an appointment to the land office that he sought; was refused a renomination to congress after having served a term; was defeated for the United States senate. Yet, despite these reverses, he held steadily on, having a sublime faith in the righteousness of his cause and in the final just determination of the people.

No contingency appalled him, no obstacle dismayed him, no reverse dimmed the ardor of his soul.

As a orator, as a politician, as a debater, as humanitarian, he stands foremost in all the history of the world among the champions of human liberty. His life should be an inspiration to us all and his deeds cherished by all the coming lovers of humankind.

TRIBUTE PAID "HONEST ABE"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — The national capital, where Abraham Lincoln lived and brought to fruition his labors in behalf of humanity, paid tribute to his memory today in a variety of ways.

In congress there were commemorative speches of his greatness and his simplicity. Dozens of patriotic organizations held memorial services in churches and clubrooms.

Listeners in many parts of the country participated in the capital's observance of his birthday through the broadcasting of short tributes from leaders in congress and members of the cabinet.

SENATOR BURTON K. WHEELER,
(Democrat, of Montana).

His Sympathies Universal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Although comparative greatness is a matter of opinion, I believe I am safe in the assertion that Abraham Lincoln was the greatest man America has so far produced.

Reared in a cabin and denied by circumstances the common opportunities for social culture, so complete was his poise of character that he was equally at home with the ax and maul splitting rails to protect the fields of the pioneer, on the platform, or in cabinet meetings determining grave policies of state.

Lincoln was the product of purely American forces unadulterated by European culture. He represented as no other man in American history, the qualities in our public men that made democracy in America possible and which, so far, have sustained at least a semblance of popular government.

Although the standard bearer of the newly formed Republican party he was in every sense a Democrat. He was born to democracy and never lost the common touch. In his love of liberty and his unswerving stand for individual human rights, he was a Jeffersonian Democrat. His sympathies were universal—they embraced the whole human race.

At this anniversary of his birth, we shall find many Republicans recounting his virtues and making frantic efforts to gain party advantage in the reflected glory of this great soul.

But the dominant leaders of the Republican party today no more resemble Lincoln, with his love and sympathy for the common pleace, his "malice toward none and charity for all," than do those Democrats who shamelessly truckle to the mandates of the financial interests, resemble, in purpose and aspirations, Thomas Jefferson with his "equal opportunties for all and special privilege to none."

The democracy of Lincoln is as severe a rebuke to the Republican politicians, who have abandoned the principles for which he stood, as is the life and work of Jefferson to those who in his name assume to guide the destinies of the party that he founded in liberty and justice.

"One Way Street," At the American, Is Gripping Drama

A beautiful woman can face defiantly any tragedy but that of the doom of old age. And to see this tragedy enacted, as it is at the American theatre in First National's picturization of the Beale Davis novel, "One Way Street," is to share with her its poignancy.

Seldom has it been our good fortune to witness a pitcture so gripping in its hold on the emotions, and we recommend it without reservation to those who enjoy good photoplays.

"One Way Street' brings Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson into a game of drama in which Fate holds all the trump cards, with the half-blind human players witlessly vying against each other.

As a novel, "One Way Street" passed the test by becoming one of the best sellers. As First National has brought it to the screen, it has much of the frankness and penetration of the novel, though presented with judicious restraint and dexterity.

"Necking" With Your Best Girl in Movie O. K., Says Court

NE WYORK, Feb. 12.—"It's "O. K." to indulge in a little "necking" when you take your best girl to a movie.

At least Magistrate Andrew McCreary thinks so. He doesn't think "petting" in public is a crime.

"In fact," he said, "display of ardent affection between young lovers ought to be encouraged. This so-called 'necking" often leads to marriage."

And he forthwith dismissed charges against John Harvey, 22, and his 17-year-old sweetheart, Margaret Brown, accused of "necking" in a motion picture house.

A Word to the Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of MAYR'S 'One Dose Will Convince,' and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere

The Unschooled Lincoln

A recent biographer says that Abraham Lincoln could have gone to college if he had wanted to. There were small, comparatively inexpensive colleges in the part of the country in which Lincoln lived. The biographer assumes that Lincoln chose the political path early and decided that he could advance along it more directly by self-education than by a college course.

This raises the speculation as to what college might have done to Lincoln. Such "if's" are not really profitable. It is of more value to study Lincoln's life as he lived it than as he might have lived it.

He was a great man and a great president. He was great in his simplicity and in his sincerity, great in his understanding of his fellow-men and in his vision of his country's needs and perils.

His achievements as president of the United States are matters for thankful pride to citizens today. His life is a source of inspiration to youthful Americans. He is deeply reverenced and loved today by a united nation.

Stars

A leaflet blew in from a big city library the other day, with a list of books on its shelves ready for lending to amateur astronomers. We haven't space to print them all, but perhaps there are enough people hereabouts who are interested in looking at the skies and would like to know more about them to justify picking out a few books whose very names give a lift of the spirit. Some of them can probably be found at the local library.

Ball, the story of the heavens. Dolmage, astronomy of today. Giberne, this wonderful univérse. Gregory, the valet of heaven. Jacoby, astronomy. Lewis, spendors of the sky. Macpherson, romance of modern astronomy. Phillips, spendor of the heavens. Proctor, evenings with the stars.

There are several books by Serviss, assisting the observer with the naked eye and with the opera glass, and several by Olcott dealing with sun lore and star lore and guiding to the world opened up by the three-inch telescope. There are books by Abbott, Sampson, Lewis and Mitchell on the sun and eclipses; books by Elson, Martin and Murphy for the very beginning beginner. And, of course, there are learned books and deep books as well.

Camille Flammarion is not on the list. Many would put his work first, for popular interest and completeness.

It's a great time of year, almost everywhere, to have a whack at this most ancient, most modern and most inclusive of sciences.

Rules of The Air

After five years of discussion and planning, a set of air traffic rules has been worked out for this country. Here are the main features:

Balloons have the right of way, as sailing vessels have on the sea. Dirigibles have the right of way over airplanes. The latter, corresponding to steamships and motor craft on water, are assumed to be able to take of themselves.

Aircraft meeting head on must turn to the right. One craft overtaking another shall pass to the right also.

"Dangerous proximity" is within 1,500 feet.

So now you know what to do when you take to the air, where traffic cops and signs are few.

Not everybody, though, is to be allowed to fly. There will be medical examinations for aviators, to determine their physical and mental fitness, with tests for "night blindness" among other things, and requirement of a "good family history."

These rules ought to be O. K., if expert authority can make the mso. They were worked out, along with many others, affecting airship manufacture as well as flight, by the Aeronautic Safety Code committee and the American Engineering Standards committee. They represent the best thought of 50 experts from 20 organizations, and the sponsored by the United States bureau of standards and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Such a code has long been needed. If more definite official sanction of the government is desired, that should be promptly given.

Up-And-Going Teachers

Every summer the throng of touring teachers grows larger. They go everywhere, visiting regions new to them in their own country and invading foreign lands with keen interest in beauty of scene, historical lore and varied customs.

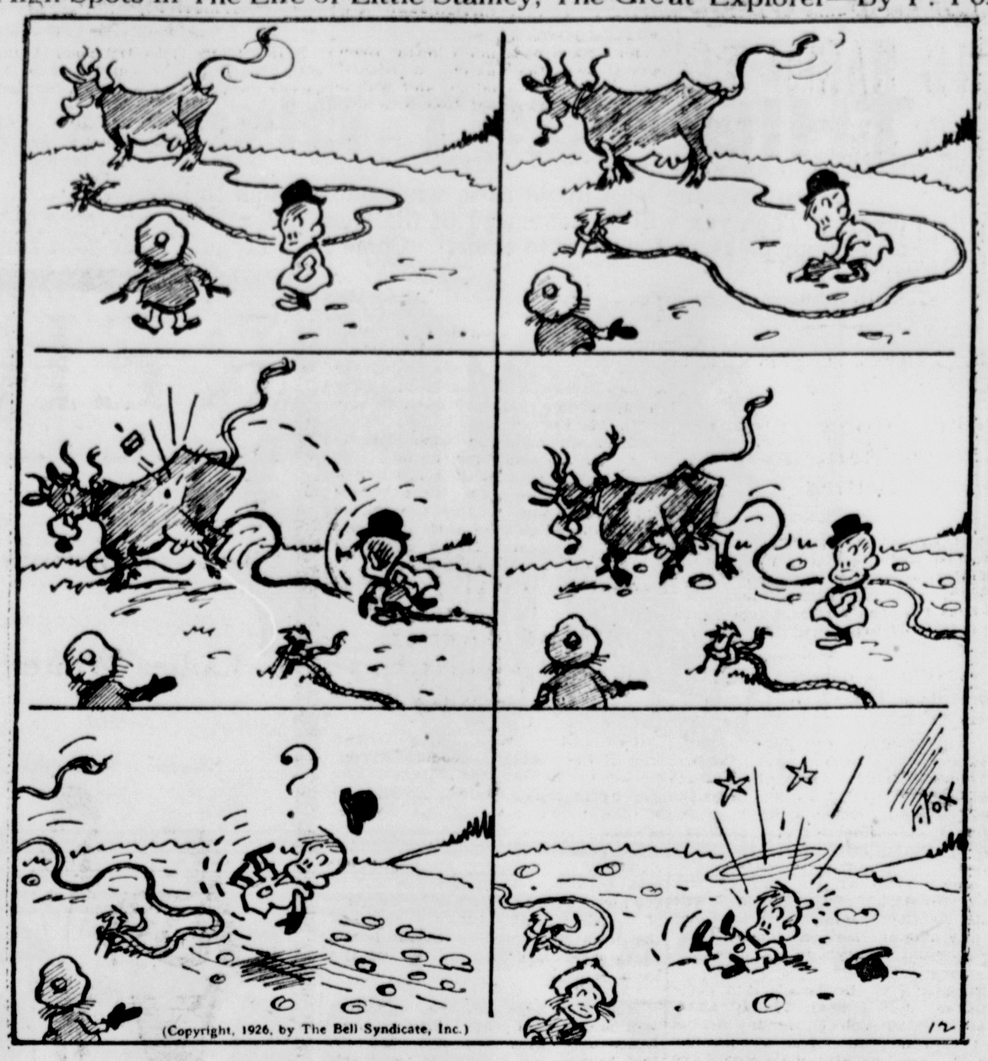

In addition to all these teacher-travelers there are the increasing number of teacher-students who flock to the colleges and universities all over the country, combing pleasure and travel with advanced study along the lines they teach or in general culture courses.

This is a fine symptom. A group of intelligent, well trained and well-traveled teachers is indispensable to the educational needs of the new times.

Says Valentino, "No woman, however beautiful, is worth fighting for." Now it's time for female star to tell the world that no man, however brave, is worth beautifying for.

Matrimony, says a Roman official, is a profession. We've certainly got some seasoned professionals in this country.

High Spots in The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer—By F. Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—My chief trouble as a reportorial observer is that I have all the qualities of litmus paper. I absorb the colorings of my surroundings. When in New York I think it is the only city in the world. The same reaction takes place in Paris, London, Los Angeles or New Orleans.

I am an unfamiliar mark for those geysers of gossip that gush in every community. Right now I am convonced Greater Miami is an Aladdin of cities. Most people I meet tell me that. Anyway my visit has not been without reward. I heard a Scotch story I never heard before today.

A Scot's wife passed away during the night. The family cook came into the bedroom to inquire of the master as to the mistress' condition. With tears streaming down his face Sandy moaned between sobs, "Only one egg this morn, Annie."

Prices boom naturally in booming communities. But $2 for an at-home haircut is putting it on thick for taking it off thin. The barber assured me he trimmed Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist, back in Port Washington, L. I. All I can say is that he trimmed me good —two ways.

Alvin seems to achieve graceful effects out in the yard with the lawn mower. He has furnished an idea. I am going to let my hair grow and fall asleep some day in the path of the mower. Hotsy-totsy! You can't trick the Scots.

Miami newspapers feature weather news. I imagine they have a standing headline, "Storm Hits East!" This pleases visiting firemen. But Miami has its shivering cool nights. Several times the only way I kept my teeth from chattering was to carry them in my hand.

And once it rained so hard I sent my post-cards "Greetings from Niagara Falls." To me these changes were welcome, for I can think of nothing so monotonous as perpetual sunshine. Unless it is having your feet stepped upon in New York.

Today we ran across the theatrical troupers who sailed on the same barque from New York. Most of them were longing for the lights o' Broadway. It is the way of all Thespians. When away from Broadway they are only camping out. A bathless room in an Eighth avenue boarding house is preferable to a screened sun-porch on the ocean front.

Most of us who have followed the literature of Florida's history rather expect to be aroused mornings by an alligator crawling over the coverlets and giving us a flip in the face with its tail. So far I haven't seen an alligator or the aquatic bird with the loveliest name in ornithology—the flamingo.

There is the story of the venerable darkey who acted as caretaker of an alligator pond. A New Yorker watched them sunning themselves and inquired: "Colonel, are they amphibious?"

"Yessah. Amphibious as the devil. They's bite you in a minute."

All over Florida are the little tented cities of tin can tourists. It is a gypsy life de luxe. Some follow dreams of easy wealth and others mere nomadic inclinations. They are here today and gone tomorrow. They eat, sleep and live after the fashion of Omar.

The most beautiful tree in Florida is the long needle pine. It has a glistening sparkle in the sun, and at night it catches the moon rays with prismatic splendor.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Indian Health and Education.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Health and education are the first things talked about in the report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke to the secretary of the interior. The health of these wards of the United States is of paramount importance. Likewise their education must stand as a credit or discredit to the government. For, properly speaking, the citizens of America are using their land, their rightful heritage, their rivers, and forests, their ancient homeland. To keep them well and to teach them is the least the government can do.

Regarding their health, Mr. Burke says "It is indeed gratifying to be able to report that our health campaign for the conquest of disease among our Indians has achieved a fair degree of success, notwithstanding the difficulties under which it has been carried on. Statistics will show that the Indian race is not a dying race, but a race which is gradually gaining in number and responding to the impulse imparted by education and changing environment."

The bureau of Indian affairs maintains activities in 24 of the states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Nort Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In its health work the Indian service is not merely attempting to cure and prevent sickness; this is but one object. The main thing is to build the vitality of the Indians and construct for them a new standard of living that will make them compatible with the rest of American civilization.

This is a big problem and a formidable one. It has many phases and is detailed and exhausing. It involves a school-health program, an industrial program, and a great amount of preventive work, and systematic attention to the physical welfare of children in order that the race may prosper and grow in strength.

A Health Program.

There is a program of health education outlined by the Indian service for its charges. It was realized that the Indians of the future generations must live more rationally and in better harmony with the rest of American civilization than those of this generation or the ones preceding it. Hence it was seen that the schools must supply the training and habits that are to make for this change and the program of health education was adopted.

Whatever appears in the lives of any people must be taught in their schools. The children of the Indians will respond to health education. They have been given a definite program. In this course the value of healthful habits in early life which are to be followed during a lifetime are stressed. Emphasis is placed upon average habits, such as can be acquired by the average child and carried into the province of character. Once the children are taught the way to live and how to live, the biggest task of the Indian service will be over. The children of a people stand for progress. They are the hope of any race.

May 1 has been declared Child Health Day in the United States. On that day observance will be carried out in all the Indian schools. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has written a preamble to the child's bill of health. He says, to quote a part of it: "The ideal to which we should strive is that there should be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health." The Indian service intends to apply this principle to the children of America's aboriginies.

The past year has been one marked with many epidemics among the Indians. Theer were as many cases of influenza as there were in that fateful year when this disease swept through the entire country—1919. Other than influenza there were epidemics of smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, mumps, and chicken pox. The people of many of the reservations were attacked by these epidemics in rapid succession, and, at times, even simultaneously. There was one case of typhus in a school in Arizona. However, there has been an excess of births over deaths despite the abnormal conditions and the wave of epidemics. Consequently there has been an increase in population.

Education has been carried on vigorously among the Indians. All available data show that both the enrollment and attendance of Indian children in all schools showed improvement over the preceding year. The attendance, has, however, been diminished in several schools by the invasion of serious epidemics in communicable diseases.

More Schools Not Needed.

It becomes more and more difficult to secure an enrollment or maintain an attendance equal to the capacity of a school during the first and second years after its establishment. In any case, the securing of children for enrollment at the opening of school in Septehmer is and will continue to be one of the greatest problems before the Indian service in its program of education. With a few exceptions, the services states, further increases of capacity of school buildings would be inadvisable at the present time.

Administration has been strained and suffered to keep pace with increases of this wind. The program now should be more efficiency, increased attendance, and more rapid educational progress in the schools as they are. However, facilities and equipment are wanting. The annual increase in attendance of Indian children in the state public schools is another factor which is of great significance in its influence on the future of the government schools.

August 31 has been set aside as Educational and Enrollment week and agency workers have been instructed to make use of all possible opportunities to interest Indian parents in the education of their children. Missionaries, traders, all, in fact, in touch with Indian communities, have been invited to take part in the drive in the name of education during the week prior to the opening of school. This policy has been followed several years and has come to be recognized as a definite and important feature of the educational program.

The results of this practice are manifest. Where a few years ago enrollment was a task that taxed the minds and bodies of the workers, it is now a comparatively simple and pleasant one, with the exception of a few isolated sections of the country where the Indians do not yet appreciate the value of education.

For the school year which opened formally September 2, 1934, and closed June 10, 1925, attendance at government schools was good, although not all that was to be desired, and in public schools enrollment was larger than ever before. The trend of attendance toward public schools is quite marked. Each year there is an increasing friendly sentiment on the part of public school officials.

HIGHS ANNEX FIRST VICTORY

Local Passers Take Double Bill With Chester Teams.

Before a crowd of students and fans in general that broke all local attendance records for the present season, Wellsville high school passers, both boys and girls, broke into the victory column last night by taking both ends of a double bill from Chester high school teams.

Coach Klinck's boys landed a 22 to 11 decision and the Orange and Black girls finished ahead by a count of 41-10.

Despite the fact that the Wellsville cagers led all the way in the main contest, the game was a battle from start to finish.

The West Virginians sank only three baskets during the evening, with Miller, Pinney and Campbell distributing the honors. Hunter, with three field goals and a foul, and Calhoun, with four two-pointers and three free tossers, led the scorers.

The local boys' and girls' teams are scheduled to play in Columbiana tonight.

Rev. Ralph I. McConnell, missionary to the country of Siam since 1921, will give an address at special services on Sunday evening in the Second Presbyterian church here.

Rev. McConnell is one of the younger generation of missionaries sent out by the Presbyterian church. The work of missionaries in Siam has been among the most difficult of any in the foreign conutries to which missionaries are sent. Many efforts were made to start such work there, according to Rev. Thomas Berger, pastor of the local church, but each in turn was given up. An attempt then was made by the Presbyterian church and after great difficulty, the work began to grow until today Siam is one of the most successful mission fields of the church.

Rev. McConnell, who comes from these fields, will speak in connection with the annual praise service of the Women's Missionary society.

GOLFERS JONES AND HAGEN TO MEET IN MATCH

Thrilling Clash is Promised on Florida Courses.

BEGINS FEB. 28

Locker Room Debates Over Merits to be Settled.

PASADENA, Fla., Feb. 12.—One of the most thrilling matches in recent golf history has been arranged.

Bobby Jones vs Walter Hagen.

These two, the foremost figures in the golf world today, will meet in a 72 hole match play game on February 28, at the Whitefield Country club in Sarasota and finish the game over the Pasadena Golf and Country club course on March 6.

There have been more locker room debates over the relative merits of Bobby Jones, the amateur, and Walter Hagen, the professional, than over anything else in golf.

Jones for the last two years has won the amateur championship of the United States.

Gate Receipts for Hagen.

So it is with Hagen in match play golf. In 1924 he won the professional match play championship at French Lick Springs. Then he repeated at Chicago last September after one of the most remarkable fights in the history of golf.

At the open championship at Worcester last June, Hagen suggested to Jones that if they were fortunate enough to repeat in their match play championships that they have a game in Florida this winter.

Jones expressed the wish that all of the gate reeceipts for the match be given to Hagen. A limited number of tickets would be sold. This gallery will be kept down so that the golfers will be able to do their stuff and those who are fortunate enough to obtain tickets will be able to see the shots played.

U. S. Coast Survey to Chart Hawaii Harbors At Molokai Islands

HONOLULU—The U. S. S. Discoverer, of the coast and geodetic survey, has arrived in Hawaiian waters to conduct hydrographic studies, particularly off the coasts of Kauai and Molokai islands.

The proposed survey off the island of Kauai is considered by local shipping men as of special importance due to the fact that this area lies in the path of vessels traveling between here and the Orient and a number of shoals and rocks are known to be in the vicinity to be studied.

More than 44,000,000 feet of lumber will be used this year in making hogsheads and cases to carry American leaf tobacco products to other parts of the world.

Colorado Hay Scarce; Ranch Owners Feed Cattle on Onions

The Unschooled Lincoln

A recent biographer says that Abraham Lincoln could have gone to college if he had wanted to. There were small, comparatively inexpensive colleges in the part of the country in which Lincoln lived. The biographer assumes that Lincoln chose the political path early and decided that he could advance along it more directly by self-education than by a college course.

This raises the speculation as to what college might have done to Lincoln. Such "if's" are not really profitable. It is of more value to study Lincoln's life as he lived it than as he might have lived it.

He was a great man and a great president. He was great in his simplicity and in his sincerity, great in his understanding of his fellow-men and in his vision of his country's needs and perils.

His achievements as president of the United States are matters for thankful pride to citizens today. His life is a source of inspiration to youthful Americans. He is deeply reverenced and loved today by a united nation.

Stars

A leaflet blew in from a big city library the other day, with a list of books on its shelves ready for lending to amateur astronomers. We haven't space to print them all, but perhaps there are enough people hereabouts who are interested in looking at the skies and would like to know more about them to justify picking out a few books whose very names give a lift of the spirit. Some of them can probably be found at the local library.

Ball, the story of the heavens. Dolmage, astronomy of today. Giberne, this wonderful univérse. Gregory, the valet of heaven. Jacoby, astronomy. Lewis, spendors of the sky. Macpherson, romance of modern astronomy. Phillips, spendor of the heavens. Proctor, evenings with the stars.

There are several books by Serviss, assisting the observer with the naked eye and with the opera glass, and several by Olcott dealing with sun lore and star lore and guiding to the world opened up by the three-inch telescope. There are books by Abbott, Sampson, Lewis and Mitchell on the sun and eclipses; books by Elson, Martin and Murphy for the very beginning beginner. And, of course, there are learned books and deep books as well.

Camille Flammarion is not on the list. Many would put his work first, for popular interest and completeness.

It's a great time of year, almost everywhere, to have a whack at this most ancient, most modern and most inclusive of sciences.

Rules of The Air

After five years of discussion and planning, a set of air traffic rules has been worked out for this country. Here are the main features:

Balloons have the right of way, as sailing vessels have on the sea. Dirigibles have the right of way over airplanes. The latter, corresponding to steamships and motor craft on water, are assumed to be able to take of themselves.

Aircraft meeting head on must turn to the right. One craft overtaking another shall pass to the right also.

"Dangerous proximity" is within 1,500 feet.

So now you know what to do when you take to the air, where traffic cops and signs are few.

Not everybody, though, is to be allowed to fly. There will be medical examinations for aviators, to determine their physical and mental fitness, with tests for "night blindness" among other things, and requirement of a "good family history."

These rules ought to be O. K., if expert authority can make the mso. They were worked out, along with many others, affecting airship manufacture as well as flight, by the Aeronautic Safety Code committee and the American Engineering Standards committee. They represent the best thought of 50 experts from 20 organizations, and the sponsored by the United States bureau of standards and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Such a code has long been needed. If more definite official sanction of the government is desired, that should be promptly given.

Up-And-Going Teachers

Every summer the throng of touring teachers grows larger. They go everywhere, visiting regions new to them in their own country and invading foreign lands with keen interest in beauty of scene, historical lore and varied customs.

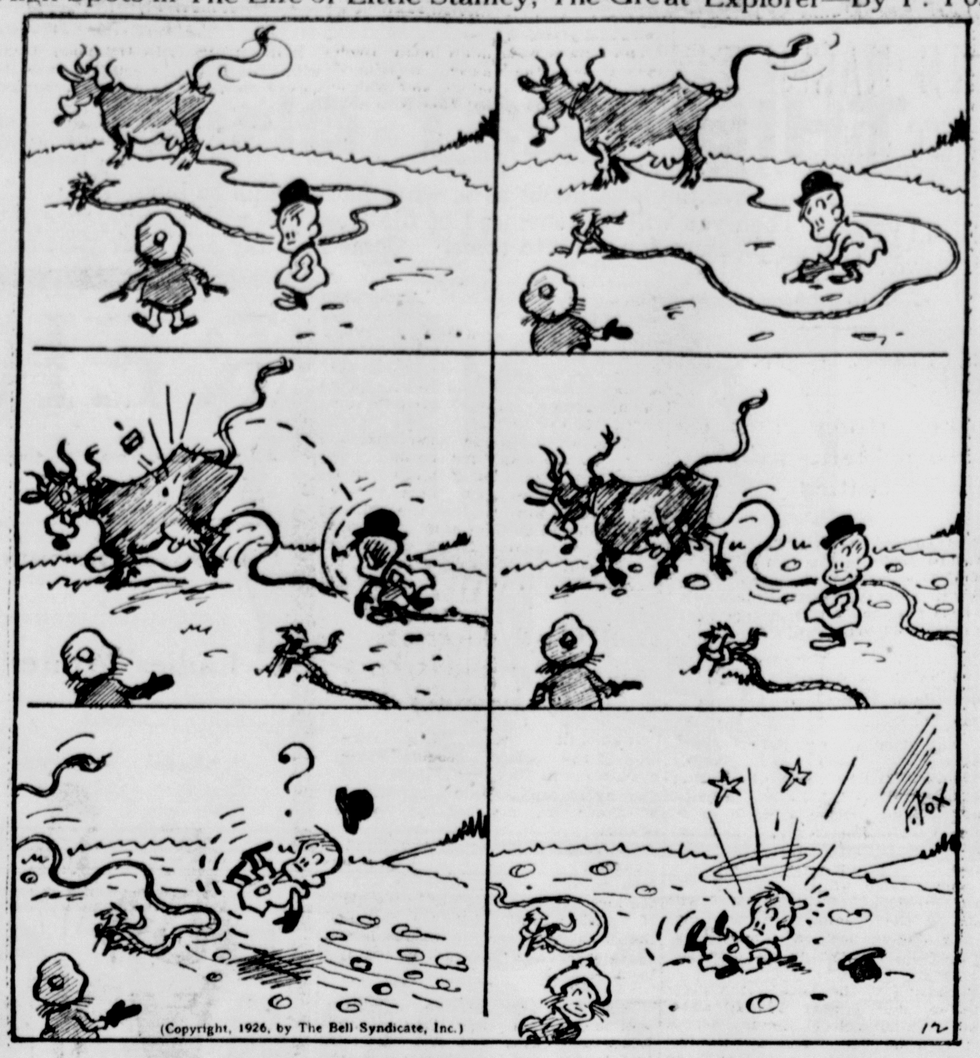

In addition to all these teacher-travelers there are the increasing number of teacher-students who flock to the colleges and universities all over the country, combing pleasure and travel with advanced study along the lines they teach or in general culture courses.

This is a fine symptom. A group of intelligent, well trained and well-traveled teachers is indispensable to the educational needs of the new times.

Says Valentino, "No woman, however beautiful, is worth fighting for." Now it's time for female star to tell the world that no man, however brave, is worth beautifying for.

Matrimony, says a Roman official, is a profession. We've certainly got some seasoned professionals in this country.

High Spots in The Life of Little Stanley, The Great Explorer—By F. Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—My chief trouble as a reportorial observer is that I have all the qualities of litmus paper. I absorb the colorings of my surroundings. When in New York I think it is the only city in the world. The same reaction takes place in Paris, London, Los Angeles or New Orleans.

I am an unfamiliar mark for those geysers of gossip that gush in every community. Right now I am convonced Greater Miami is an Aladdin of cities. Most people I meet tell me that. Anyway my visit has not been without reward. I heard a Scotch story I never heard before today.

A Scot's wife passed away during the night. The family cook came into the bedroom to inquire of the master as to the mistress' condition. With tears streaming down his face Sandy moaned between sobs, "Only one egg this morn, Annie."

Prices boom naturally in booming communities. But $2 for an at-home haircut is putting it on thick for taking it off thin. The barber assured me he trimmed Fontaine Fox, the cartoonist, back in Port Washington, L. I. All I can say is that he trimmed me good —two ways.

Alvin seems to achieve graceful effects out in the yard with the lawn mower. He has furnished an idea. I am going to let my hair grow and fall asleep some day in the path of the mower. Hotsy-totsy! You can't trick the Scots.

Miami newspapers feature weather news. I imagine they have a standing headline, "Storm Hits East!" This pleases visiting firemen. But Miami has its shivering cool nights. Several times the only way I kept my teeth from chattering was to carry them in my hand.

And once it rained so hard I sent my post-cards "Greetings from Niagara Falls." To me these changes were welcome, for I can think of nothing so monotonous as perpetual sunshine. Unless it is having your feet stepped upon in New York.

Today we ran across the theatrical troupers who sailed on the same barque from New York. Most of them were longing for the lights o' Broadway. It is the way of all Thespians. When away from Broadway they are only camping out. A bathless room in an Eighth avenue boarding house is preferable to a screened sun-porch on the ocean front.

Most of us who have followed the literature of Florida's history rather expect to be aroused mornings by an alligator crawling over the coverlets and giving us a flip in the face with its tail. So far I haven't seen an alligator or the aquatic bird with the loveliest name in ornithology—the flamingo.

There is the story of the venerable darkey who acted as caretaker of an alligator pond. A New Yorker watched them sunning themselves and inquired: "Colonel, are they amphibious?"

"Yessah. Amphibious as the devil. They's bite you in a minute."

All over Florida are the little tented cities of tin can tourists. It is a gypsy life de luxe. Some follow dreams of easy wealth and others mere nomadic inclinations. They are here today and gone tomorrow. They eat, sleep and live after the fashion of Omar.

The most beautiful tree in Florida is the long needle pine. It has a glistening sparkle in the sun, and at night it catches the moon rays with prismatic splendor.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Indian Health and Education.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Health and education are the first things talked about in the report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs Charles H. Burke to the secretary of the interior. The health of these wards of the United States is of paramount importance. Likewise their education must stand as a credit or discredit to the government. For, properly speaking, the citizens of America are using their land, their rightful heritage, their rivers, and forests, their ancient homeland. To keep them well and to teach them is the least the government can do.

Regarding their health, Mr. Burke says "It is indeed gratifying to be able to report that our health campaign for the conquest of disease among our Indians has achieved a fair degree of success, notwithstanding the difficulties under which it has been carried on. Statistics will show that the Indian race is not a dying race, but a race which is gradually gaining in number and responding to the impulse imparted by education and changing environment."

The bureau of Indian affairs maintains activities in 24 of the states—Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Nort Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In its health work the Indian service is not merely attempting to cure and prevent sickness; this is but one object. The main thing is to build the vitality of the Indians and construct for them a new standard of living that will make them compatible with the rest of American civilization.

This is a big problem and a formidable one. It has many phases and is detailed and exhausing. It involves a school-health program, an industrial program, and a great amount of preventive work, and systematic attention to the physical welfare of children in order that the race may prosper and grow in strength.

A Health Program.

There is a program of health education outlined by the Indian service for its charges. It was realized that the Indians of the future generations must live more rationally and in better harmony with the rest of American civilization than those of this generation or the ones preceding it. Hence it was seen that the schools must supply the training and habits that are to make for this change and the program of health education was adopted.

Whatever appears in the lives of any people must be taught in their schools. The children of the Indians will respond to health education. They have been given a definite program. In this course the value of healthful habits in early life which are to be followed during a lifetime are stressed. Emphasis is placed upon average habits, such as can be acquired by the average child and carried into the province of character. Once the children are taught the way to live and how to live, the biggest task of the Indian service will be over. The children of a people stand for progress. They are the hope of any race.

May 1 has been declared Child Health Day in the United States. On that day observance will be carried out in all the Indian schools. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has written a preamble to the child's bill of health. He says, to quote a part of it: "The ideal to which we should strive is that there should be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever suffers from undernutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health." The Indian service intends to apply this principle to the children of America's aboriginies.

The past year has been one marked with many epidemics among the Indians. Theer were as many cases of influenza as there were in that fateful year when this disease swept through the entire country—1919. Other than influenza there were epidemics of smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, mumps, and chicken pox. The people of many of the reservations were attacked by these epidemics in rapid succession, and, at times, even simultaneously. There was one case of typhus in a school in Arizona. However, there has been an excess of births over deaths despite the abnormal conditions and the wave of epidemics. Consequently there has been an increase in population.

Education has been carried on vigorously among the Indians. All available data show that both the enrollment and attendance of Indian children in all schools showed improvement over the preceding year. The attendance, has, however, been diminished in several schools by the invasion of serious epidemics in communicable diseases.

More Schools Not Needed.

It becomes more and more difficult to secure an enrollment or maintain an attendance equal to the capacity of a school during the first and second years after its establishment. In any case, the securing of children for enrollment at the opening of school in Septehmer is and will continue to be one of the greatest problems before the Indian service in its program of education. With a few exceptions, the services states, further increases of capacity of school buildings would be inadvisable at the present time.

Administration has been strained and suffered to keep pace with increases of this wind. The program now should be more efficiency, increased attendance, and more rapid educational progress in the schools as they are. However, facilities and equipment are wanting. The annual increase in attendance of Indian children in the state public schools is another factor which is of great significance in its influence on the future of the government schools.

August 31 has been set aside as Educational and Enrollment week and agency workers have been instructed to make use of all possible opportunities to interest Indian parents in the education of their children. Missionaries, traders, all, in fact, in touch with Indian communities, have been invited to take part in the drive in the name of education during the week prior to the opening of school. This policy has been followed several years and has come to be recognized as a definite and important feature of the educational program.

The results of this practice are manifest. Where a few years ago enrollment was a task that taxed the minds and bodies of the workers, it is now a comparatively simple and pleasant one, with the exception of a few isolated sections of the country where the Indians do not yet appreciate the value of education.

For the school year which opened formally September 2, 1934, and closed June 10, 1925, attendance at government schools was good, although not all that was to be desired, and in public schools enrollment was larger than ever before. The trend of attendance toward public schools is quite marked. Each year there is an increasing friendly sentiment on the part of public school officials.

HIGHS ANNEX FIRST VICTORY

Local Passers Take Double Bill With Chester Teams.

Before a crowd of students and fans in general that broke all local attendance records for the present season, Wellsville high school passers, both boys and girls, broke into the victory column last night by taking both ends of a double bill from Chester high school teams.

Coach Klinck's boys landed a 22 to 11 decision and the Orange and Black girls finished ahead by a count of 41-10.

Despite the fact that the Wellsville cagers led all the way in the main contest, the game was a battle from start to finish.

The West Virginians sank only three baskets during the evening, with Miller, Pinney and Campbell distributing the honors. Hunter, with three field goals and a foul, and Calhoun, with four two-pointers and three free tossers, led the scorers.

The local boys' and girls' teams are scheduled to play in Columbiana tonight.

SIAM MISSIONARY TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. Ralph I. McConnell, missionary to the country of Siam since 1921, will give an address at special services on Sunday evening in the Second Presbyterian church here.

Rev. McConnell is one of the younger generation of missionaries sent out by the Presbyterian church. The work of missionaries in Siam has been among the most difficult of any in the foreign conutries to which missionaries are sent. Many efforts were made to start such work there, according to Rev. Thomas Berger, pastor of the local church, but each in turn was given up. An attempt then was made by the Presbyterian church and after great difficulty, the work began to grow until today Siam is one of the most successful mission fields of the church.

Rev. McConnell, who comes from these fields, will speak in connection with the annual praise service of the Women's Missionary society.

GOLFERS JONES AND HAGEN TO MEET IN MATCH

Thrilling Clash is Promised on Florida Courses.

BEGINS FEB. 28

Locker Room Debates Over Merits to be Settled.

PASADENA, Fla., Feb. 12.—One of the most thrilling matches in recent golf history has been arranged.

Bobby Jones vs Walter Hagen.

These two, the foremost figures in the golf world today, will meet in a 72 hole match play game on February 28, at the Whitefield Country club in Sarasota and finish the game over the Pasadena Golf and Country club course on March 6.

There have been more locker room debates over the relative merits of Bobby Jones, the amateur, and Walter Hagen, the professional, than over anything else in golf.

Jones for the last two years has won the amateur championship of the United States.

Gate Receipts for Hagen.

So it is with Hagen in match play golf. In 1924 he won the professional match play championship at French Lick Springs. Then he repeated at Chicago last September after one of the most remarkable fights in the history of golf.

At the open championship at Worcester last June, Hagen suggested to Jones that if they were fortunate enough to repeat in their match play championships that they have a game in Florida this winter.

Jones expressed the wish that all of the gate reeceipts for the match be given to Hagen. A limited number of tickets would be sold. This gallery will be kept down so that the golfers will be able to do their stuff and those who are fortunate enough to obtain tickets will be able to see the shots played.

U. S. Coast Survey to Chart Hawaii Harbors At Molokai Islands

HONOLULU—The U. S. S. Discoverer, of the coast and geodetic survey, has arrived in Hawaiian waters to conduct hydrographic studies, particularly off the coasts of Kauai and Molokai islands.

The proposed survey off the island of Kauai is considered by local shipping men as of special importance due to the fact that this area lies in the path of vessels traveling between here and the Orient and a number of shoals and rocks are known to be in the vicinity to be studied.

More than 44,000,000 feet of lumber will be used this year in making hogsheads and cases to carry American leaf tobacco products to other parts of the world.

Colorado Hay Scarce; Ranch Owners Feed Cattle on Onions

MONTROSE, Col.—Delicious steaks, with the flavor of onions, may be served on dining cars and restaurants in the west next spring.

Millinery Broadcasts for Spring

Listen In On Fashion News of Hats for Spring

Station F-A-S-H-I-O-N announces three popular types of Hats for spring--of fabric, felt and crocheted straw. One of the smartest fabrics is grosgrain, which adapts itself easily to the popular beret. Soft felt is bright pastels are tailored and trim, while more formal Hats are of timbal, hair braid or crocheted straw. Draped softly and becomingly, with a careful blending of color, ever Hat is a lovely creation wanting only a wearer.

Moderately Priced

$5.00 $7.50

BERETS are clever little combinations of tam and turban. Soft felts and fabrics are draped with grace and distinction in this style, and narrow upturned brims in front give berets a smartness much in demand.

SHAPES are almost always snug, close fitting little affairs, but for those who like the larger hat for dress wear there are short-backed capelines in delicate shades.

COLORS are gay that hats may match gay costumes. One's choice is wide, however, ranging from opal gray, black, navy blue and brown to misty pastels of green, rose and yellow. Blues, reds and tans are popular, too.

STILLMANS ACT LIKE THEY ARE ON HONEYMOON

Newspaper Men Greet Banker and Wife in France.

BOTH ARE HAPPY

"Everything Delightfully Vague," They Tell Reporters.

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 12.—Acting the roles of blushing bride and radiant bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman arrived early today on the Olympic for their "autumn honeymoon."

Greeted by a throng of newspapermen, the Stillmans invited them smilingly into Mrs. Stillman's sumptuous Louis sixteenth suite.

"Remember," said Mrs. Stillman, "we haven't seen each other for a long time, not more than three times in the last two years. We are busy gathering up old threads.

"It is true that I have been a student of psycho-analysis for a long time but please do not believe that is entirely responsible for our reconciliation. Mr. Stillman is not as enthusiastic as I am for mental science and I certainly wouldn't try to convince him of anything, certainly not psycho-analysis.

"We are utterly without plans. Everything as yet is delightfully vague. We are letting the future take care of itself."

Await Daughter's Arrival.

"We are awaiting the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davison who are coming from India to Marseilles," Mrs. Stillman continued. "It is just a little family partly and Paris is ideal for such reunions. Maybe we'll hide away in some little place over here. You can't do that in America, of course, because there you belong to the public. But here they wouldn't make much fuss over us, at least, we hope not."

Mrs. Stillman wore a flaming red blouse, embroidered skirt, a small flat hat. She was enveloped in a black cloak with a mink collar. She looked extremely well and appeared to be very happy.

"No," she said in response to a question, "Mr. Stillman has not retired from business, how do you think he could get his bread and butter and buy me pretty clothes?"

Stillman absented himself during a part of the interview and it was evident that the attendant publicity was not entirely to his liking, but when he later rejoined Mrs. Stillman he was most amiable to the little group of correspondents, while he ate his grapefruit.

"It has been a long time since I was in Paris, more than five years," he said.

On Way to Paris.

"No, Jimmie, weren't you over last summer?" interjected Mrs. Stillman.

"That's right, I was almost forgetting," Stillman replied.

Passengers said that the Stillmans had been very quiet throughout the voyage, participating in the shipboard events but little. Mr. Stillman frequently visited Mrs. Stillman in her suite.

The Stillmans spent much time on the voyage reading to each other from "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," passengers said.

Both beaming with happiness, the Stillmans boarded the Paris boat train, taking seats in the same compartment as befitted a honeymoon couple. Their train is due in Paris at 3 this afternoon.

MARSEILLES, Feb. 12. — Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davison, Jr., arrived here today and hastened to Paris to play their important part in effecting the permanent reconciliation of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stillman. Mrs. Davison, the former Anne Stillman, was so anxious to get to Paris when she disembarked from the Kaisarihind from India, that she would not wait the special boat train but took the regular 9:30 train for Paris, which will permit her to arrive there tonight shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Stillman arrive.

Coroner Exonerates Columbus Confectioner Who Fired Shot.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12.—The lifeless body of the bandit killed here by Ira C. Hunt, while trying to steal $45 from Hunt's grocery and confectionery store Wednesday night, has been identified as that of Jim Christ, alias Jim Charles, alias Jim Fronsno, formerly of Mansfield.

Identification was made by Mrs. Nellie Mackwell and W. A. Shaw, former residents of Mansfield, now living here.

Mrs. Mackwell told police the dead man served time in the Mansfield reformatory for robbing a man at Mansfield of $2,500. She said he held her up and stole some money from her at Mansfield while she was walking home from work at the Crystal stove works.

Police have taken no action against Hunt. Coroner Murphy exonerated Hunt, who asserted he shot in self-defense. The body of the dead highwayman is being held at the Egan undertaking parlors pending completion of burial arrangements.

Wounds Former Owner, Kills Self After Store Is Raided

Murder and Suicide Follow State Agents' Visit to Fairview Village Grocery and Confectionery.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12. — David Wells, proprietor of a grocery and confectionery store in Fairview village, was dead today by his own hand after he had shot and fatally wounded John Blue, former owner of the place.

The murder and suicide were the direct results of a dry raid staged at Wells' store by state dry agents under the direction of Mayor D. J. Zinner, of Fairview. Agents, tipped off by a woman, found a cleverly concealed liquor cache. Wells was released under $1,000 bond.

Returning to his store, he brooded over the raid, and decided that Blue, who had built the building, was the only man who could have tipped off the raiders.

Blue came to the store, and promised to see if he couldn't "fix things up."

Wells accused Blue of having furnished the raiders with their clue.

"You built the hiding place, when you owned the store," Wells said. "You must have tipped them off."

Heedless of Blue's denials, Wells pulled a gun and fired twice. One bullet brought Blue down.

Wells then fired a shot through his head, dying instantly.

Blue died on his way to the hospital.

question is, will the coal strike interfere with President Coolidge? Another election is coming in 1928, and workmen vote, as do more people that can get no coal.

Roosevelt would not have missed such a bright spotlight as the coal strike offers. He would have been right under it, hat in hand, teeth showing, voice loud and clear. And he would have stopped the coal strike. But the people and the workmen have short memories. It is a long way to 1928.

It has been said that suicide is "confession." If a man accused of crime or other disgraceful act kills himself, his death means that he confesses.

Suicide is also cowardice.

All life is a struggle against troubles, disappointments, worries. The man who turns his back on life and seeks a suicide's grave is like a man who turns his back to the enemy in battle and runs.

Courage and religious faith are the force that conquer suicide.

Ireland, among all the world's nations, has the lowest suicide rate, only 2.5 in 100,000.

Temperament, and the outlook on life, sad or optimistic, have something to do with the suicide rate. Suicide is common in Asiatic countries, where the instinct of preservation seems weak, and men make little account of life.

In Japan, most energetic and courageous of the Asiatic nations, the suicide rate is only 17 in 100,000. In Hawaii, where the native population has been gradually dying out, even without the help of suicide, and where the bulk of foreigners is mixed Asiatic, the death rate is very high, 22 in 100,000.

Suicide probably comes most often from sheer boredom, a man tired of life leaves it. Give him something interesting and he clings to life instantly.

If twenty men planning suicide within the next twenty-four hours could be put on a ship, the ship wrecked and the twenty men landed on a raft, they would forget all about suicide. The problems then would be to keep alive and reach the shore. That problem would INTEREST them ,and not one of them would think of dropping overboard purposely.

Life is short. We don't know how we got here or why we came. We don't know where we are going.

Life is interesting with all its trouble. We live in an age of wonderful change, which has seen man move up from the earth and his four-wheeled wagon into the clouds in his flying machine.

No sensible man ought to leave the earth just now. He should wait to see what will happen next.

Prof. Crawford at the Kansas State Agricultural college tells American schools of journalism that for newspapermen "wide reading is also important." It is, indeed—reading of the right kind is for newspapermen as important as right feeding for steers or hogs.

A scientist needs to know ALL about some one thing, it doesn't matter how little he knows about things in general.

The newspaperman needs to know something about everything. He need not necessarily know all about any one thing.

There are twenty books that can add 100 per cent to the value of all newspapermen, and not five per cent of all newspapermen have read them.

COLLEGE HEAD MAKES ADDRESS

President Goodnight of Bethany Speaks Before Student Body.

"I have more faith in the college men and women of today than to believe that, when any of them enter the halls of our congress, they will ever permit such legislation as the new immigration laws to ever be enacted. College men and women have a better inter-racial feeling—and it is this feeling that is one of the expressions of the real religion that they have found," said Dr. Cloyd Goodnight, president of Bethany college, in an address on the "Religion of College Students" delivered before the students and faculty yesterday.

"The day of the big Sunday school convention and the long Christian Endeavor parade has passed, but the real things of the spirit have more power today than they have ever had and a genuine spirit of a wholesome Christian life is in the heart of practically every person on college campuses today. It is the parade of their christianity for parade's sake that makes students revolt," he declared. "The great base lines of Christ's teaching will endure and it will be the college students who will do most to preserve their deep and full significance."

"Flaming Forties," Fine Action Drama, At Strand Theatre

"The Flaming Forties," Harry Carey's latest starring vehicle, at the Strand theatre, excells all other adventures dealing with the eventful days of '49.

Lovers of Bret Harte, who read the old American tale, will be delighted with this screen version, as the well-known star brings the leading character, Bill Jones, to life with so much realism and color that henceforth when we think of "Tennessee's Pardner," we shall visualize Harry Carey in the role, and undoubtedly all who see his splendid performance will do likewise.

The picture is chock full of thrills and typical Carey fights of the "flying fist" variety. The realism with which the renegade Indian attack on the hero has been executed caused several of those around me to gasp audibly last evening.

The sole feminine role is capably handled by Jacquelin Gadsdon, a dark-eyed, "perfect" blonde, and her wistful presence adds materially to the effectiveness of the production.

Civic Investigators For Crime Agencies Assailed by Judge

CHICAGO.—Investigators for civic crime agencies who invade homes in search of evidence were branded "prowlers with right to kick if shot," by United States Commissioner Henry C. Beitler, in dismissing charges brought against Victoria Shaw of violating the prohibition laws.

"I wonder how men like you get by without getting shot," said the Commissioner to Oswald Thompson and Walter M. Scott, representing the Committee of Fifteen. "You are no more than private prowlers."

The two investigators, it was testified, had torn up the Shaw home in search for liquor.

QUALITY SHOP TO UNCLE POP—

A dignified man and dressed very fine,
Wore tailor made clothes of latest design.
In leaving Pop's Inn, stepped on the cement,
Didn't notice the ice—and away his heels went!
Of course he sat down, and away went his hat—
'Twas muddy and icy and wet where he sat;
He smilingly said: "I see at a glance
This preacher sure needs a pair of dry pants!"

Critics Profess To See Finish Of Tilden's Tennis Reign

Execution On Court Lacking In Accuracy

Efforts at Emulating John Barrymore Have Made Him a Nervous Wreck, is Claim; Has Lost Much of The Surety of Touch That Has Featured His Play in Other Years.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Some of the less feeble minded of our intelligentsia today claimed to have observed a distinctly sub-normal tendency in the day-to-day game exhibited by William T. Tilden, greatest tennis player of the ages ,and intimates that they feared the worst for William when he steps out with the French in the national indoor tennis championships next week.

These calamitous views of Tilden are getting to be something of a habit, but this time it may be that they have some basis of fact. Tilden, the actor-writer-player, seems to have lost much of the surety of touch that has featured his play in other years, according to capable observers who have watched his daily practics at the Heights casino.

They say he is a victim of nerves, brought on by his somewhat unsuccessful efforts to make John Barrymore throw away his grease pot in high dudgeon. So far, John hasn't deigned to throw anything even in a low dudgeon and is being stoutly encouraged in this attitude by the dramatic cricites, who seem to have confounded our Mr. Tilden's acting with something in the nature of a double fault at a very critical juncture.

Adverse criticism and the nightly effort necessary for putting over the great message to his public are being blamed for the fact that Tilden's execution on the courts seem to have lost some of its accuracy. He probably will not need any more than all of it next week.

For one thing, they have dropped him in the lower half of the draw and he must beat Jean Borotra, of France, probably the most dangerous man in the tournament, before he can hope to get as far as the semi-final round. A lot of the wise money will ride with Borotra in this tournament, in spite of the fact that he is bracketed with Tilden in the upper half of the second flight.

The indoor courts happen to be this young man's happy hunting ground. Beaten time and again outdoors by his team mate, Rene Lacoste, Borota recently rushed right over Lacoste in the covered court championship of France. Lacoste may be the better tennis player, although this is open to doubt after the way both played Tilden to a standstill in the Davis cap matches last year, but Borotra reigns supreme on the boards.

Tilden, of course, has been beaten before and no one sat up to ring the Liberty bell at midnight. The defeats came in events of minor importance, however. For six years, Tilden hasn't lost a match he really desired to win. He will want to win next week.

CROMWELL HAS HOPE FOR TITLE

Sees National Track Honors in Squad of 64 Athletes.

By Copeland C. Burg.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—Coach Dean Cromwell of the University of Southern California believes he has a bright chance to again win the national track title despite the fact the "heavy-heavy" hangs over his head in the form of the eligibility axe.

Sixty-four athletes are in Cromwell's squad this spring and of the men who went East last season to cop national honors, only three are missing.

Off-setting these point-scorers, Cromwell has Lee Barnes, Olympic pole vault champion, who comes up from freshman ranks.

Showing Good Form.

Bud Houser, Olympic shotput champion, is showing splendid form. Leighton Dye in the hurdles; Kenny Grubles, low hurdler; Percy Neirsbach, half-miler, are evidencing early workouts which make them loom as in the money men at the national meet this year in Boston.

The Trojans will be weakest in the sprints.

Hershel Smith, who won the national junior A. A. U. dash, is fighting for first honors on the Southern California squad with Brice Taylor, the colored star. Ed. House, John Parsons and Jack O'Malley complete Cromwell's present dash material.

Ralph Shawhan, formerly at Ames, Iowa, is showing well in the mile.

Meets Scheduled.

The return to college of Arden Hughes strengthens the Trojans' quarter and half-mile material. McDaniels, Wallace and Bruce Smith are also available in the quarter and Vose Adams, Harold Lovejoy and Percey Neirsbach will compete in teh half with Hughes.

Kaer and William Cook are tossing the javelin more than 180 feet and four others are only a few feet behind them.

The Trojans will have plenty of competition before leaving for Boston to defend their national title. They start the season February 20 against Occidental college, then meet Stanford at Palo Alto and California here. A meet with Arizona is also contemplated and another meet against Southern California conference schools is also in the making for the late spring.

M. P.'S DEFEAT ST. STEPHENS

The clash was anybody's battle in the first half, the count being 14 to 12 at the end of the first two quafters. Play became heated in the second half. Land Decision Over Glenmore Passers, 23-6.

Despite the absence of four players the Power basketball team managed to hang up its 18th victory of the campaign Wednesday night, defeating the Glenmore team by the score of 23 to 6.

The scoring of Bucher and the playing of the other Power passers featured the tilt. The count at the first half was 14 to 2. In the pre-campaign Wednesday night, defeat the girls' centralized school quint, 52-18.

The Powers will play Saturday night on the high school court meeting the Homer Laughlin 6 team in a preliminary to the Canton Heimie Collegians game.

WESLEYAN FIVE AT MARIETTA

MARIETTA, Feb. 12.—The second meeting of the Marietta college and West Virginia Wesleyan basketball teams is scheduled for tonight at the Pioneer City.

Having invaded the lair of the Wesleyan "Bobcats" and routed them earlier in the season Marietta expects to duplicate the performance in the second contest. They are by no means overconfident, however, for since then Wesleyan has scored a win against West Virginia among a string of victories and right now are at the top of their form.

RIVALS LAND EASY MATCHES

Wills and Lenglen Show Speed in Today's Game.

By Frederick K. Abbott.

CANNES, France, Feb. 12.—Helen Wills has not suffered from her three-day lay-off due to rain. The California girl demonstrated this today when she ran away with her match with Mrs. O'Neil in the Carlton club singles, defeating her, 6-0, 6-0.

Mrs. O'Neil was never in the running and the American girl demonstrated her speediest game.

Mlle. Lenglen looked just as good as ever also, and she had no difficulty in winning her match, 6-0, 6-0, from Miss Moss.

The form displayed by the two stars today has aroused even greater enthusiasm in their projected match, and it is freely predicted that the Lenglen-Wills match will be one of the best in the history of tennis.

BRODT PROBLEM FOR BOLES' FIVE

WOOSTER, Feb. 12. — Can the Wooster defense stop the scoring of Steve Brodt, Akron University forward? That is the big question before Coaches Boles and Hole, of the Wooster basketball squad, as they prepare the players for the game with Akron University here Saturday evening.

However, that isn't the only worry the Wooster mentors have. Captain Pfeiffer and Blough, Wooster's forwards, are both off form. Pfeiffer is nursing a pulled muscle in his left leg which kept him out of the early practices of the week. Blough's hand, in which a blood vessel was ruptured in the Reserve game, still bothers him. Wooster expects to have both men in the lineup against Akron but neither is expected to be in his best form.

PARIS—The city of Paris finds itself 1,200,000 francs richer from the direct proceeds of the Exposition of Decorative Arts. Fifty million more francs than in the corresponding period of 1924 was taken in by the autobuses, street cars and subways during the exposition. A good share of this will also find its way into the municipal coffers.

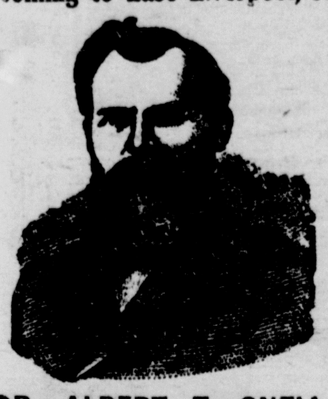

This is contrary to expositions of the past. In 1878 the city furnished 6,000,000 francs as her share in the exposition of that year and only received 450,000 francs in return.

Then again in 1900 the city played angel to the extent of 20,000,000 francs and only saw 3,637,903 francs returned.

Receipts Totaled $3,922.48, According to Report of Harry A. Wilson, Executive—Expenditures are Itemized.

The Columbiana County Council, Boy Scouts of America, which had charge of the Boy Scout work in north county towns only during 1925, reported a deficit of $197.57 at the end of the fiscal year, Harry A. Wilson, county executive, announced.

Receipts amounted to $3,724.91 as compared with expenditures of $3,922.48. Due to the fact that the Boy Scout activities have been extended to include East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell this year, the 1926 budget calls for approximately $7,000, all of which has been subscribed.

The 1925 statement shows colections of $1,456.25 in the Salem district; $720 in Columbiana; $100 in Leetonia and $650 in Lisbon, while $349.54 was collected in special subscriptions.

Other receipts included $165.78, from supplies; $53.70, from registration fees; $11.45, from the Boy Scouts' camp; $26.50, from miscellaneous sources and $191.69 carried over from the preceding year.

The biggest item in the expenditures was $2,500 for the executive's salary; $328.49 for office salries; $294.45 for transportation charges; $167.87 for supplies; $150 for the national Boy Scouts' quota; $90.16 for camps; $57.17 for office supplies; $57.70 for registration; $44.15 for postage; $44.63 for rallies and field days; $39.75 for leadership and training; $39.06 for publicity; $25 for petty cash; $23.10 for telephone; $6.37 for office equipment; $6.14 for district expenses; $2.40 for camp property and $59.04 for miscellaneous expenses.

Salvation Army Files Court Action Against Building Contractor

CINCINNATI—One of the oddest suits ever to reach the local courts was filed here by the Salvation Army which seeks to enjoin a contractor from further work on a moving picture theater next door to the Catherine Booth maternity home.

The injunction was a new indictment of jazz.

The petition alleged that jazz, if played in close proximity to a maternity hospital, will implant "jazz emotions" in babies yet unborn.

"Plaintiffs realize that they live in a jazz age," the petition said, "but they are loathe to believe that babies unborn in a maternity hospital are to be subjected legally to the implanting of the jazz emotion and all that it means by such enforced close proximity to a theater and jazz palace."

Appeals for pictures have been made to the Auckland Art society by the Institute for the Blind at Auckland, N. Z., directors saying that children partially blind are much interested in paintings and that those totally without sight take a pride in the art exhibits.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

3x3 — ?

The school teacher had asked Johnny, "How much is three times three?", to which Johnny promptly replied, "Nine!"

"Very good," commented the teacher.

"What da yuh mean 'very good'?" demanded Johnny; "THAT'S PERFECT!"

And that's the way we feel about the "new and entirely different" Werk's Washing Machine Soap. A simple, half-hearted "very good" does not apply, because only an enthusiastic "PERFECT!" comes anywhere near doing it justice.

"WERK'S WASHING MACHINE SOAP — PERFECT" represents absolutely the last and highest word in soap construction for use in washing machine or washbowl laundering of dainty, silken lingerie. "It Pours Like Sugar."

Solons Authorize Expenditure of $800 On City Incinerator

City council has authorized Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore to make repairs to the municipal garbage incinerator at the foot of Washington street, estimated to cost approximately $800.

The solons, at the invitation of the server-safer, recently viewed the disposal plant.

A new furnace would cost between $14,000 and $16,000. A Cambridge clay concern has offered to furnish materials necessary to repair the present furnace for $300. Labor and other equipment would mean an added expense of about $500, it is estimated. When these repairs are completed, the furnace will be in workable condition for at least two years.

The furnace will be closed for approximately a week or 10 days while the repairs are in progress.

College Physicians Study Spine of Rat To Cure Paralysis

CHICAGO—The first step of a long list of experiments leading to the solution of the infantile paralysis problem, one of the most baffling in modern research, has been taken by two University of Chicago physiologists.

Drs. W. W. Gerard and Theodore Koppanyi, it is announced, cut the spinal cord of a rat in the pre-natal stage and found that the lesion had completely healed at birth. This is the first time in medical history that the spinal cord of a mammal has regenerated and one of the few instances where operations have been successfully performed on animals in the pre-natal state.

The connection between the experiment and infantile paralysis, it was pointed out, is that if it can be ascertained what chemical changes determine regeneration of the spinal cord fibers control of infantile paralysis, in which actual destruction of the nerve cells in the cord occurs, may be possible.

American Youth is Free, Happy And Progressive, Author Finds

Fritz Zielesch, German Publicist, Reviews in Book His Experiences With Boy and Girl Organizations.

BERLIN.—"American youth is free, happy, and progressive," says Fritz Zielesch, German publicist, in a book entitled "Youth in the Land of Youth."

The book is a vivid description of what the author during a trip to the states saw of the various branches of American Youth Movement. It has been praised as a "bridge between the youth of two worlds, only a few days apart, technically speaking, but still apart for years concerning the way of thinking," by Dr. K. O. Bertling, director of Berlin America Institute.

Reviewing his experiences with the various American Youth organizations including Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, college boys and girls, etc., the author points out the difference of mind between American and German youths as follows:

"Americans make use of nature as a means of recreation. Nature is no secret for them. They enjoy it without emotion or lust or adventure. German youth form their own individual opinion on life, world, political institutions and economic doctrines. Their individualism develops a mind which is in striking contrast to the notions and opinions of grown-up peopel. This is entirely different with Americans, where everybody wants to be 'just a boy, or just a girl.' America has solved the problem of remaining young throughout life."

Dwelling on the different meaning of "education' in both countries, the author says that young Americans are brought up with the purpose of making out of them good citizens and useful members of human society. This is achieved by a standardization of educational methods which "makes" Americans all alike.

Burning leather gives an odor that is a protection against infectious diseases, declares a Vienna physician who points to the fact that shoemakers of that city escaped the cholera plague several years ago by lighting scraps of leather in their homes.

Decline of handwork in the famed embroidery industry of Switzerland, caused by the growth of textile factories, has precipitated so severe an employment crisis that the government has destroyed 2,400 hand looms.

Japan has appointed an official committee to consider the construction of permanent buildings for government departments now occupying temporary barracks in the earthquake area, since last June.

"One Way Street" Is Screen Feature At the American

"One Way Street," one of the year's sensations in the literary field, is the screen offering at the Aemrican theater, with Ben Lyon and Anna Q. Nilsson in the featured roles. The picture was produced by First National from the novel by Beale Davis—a novel which, within a month after its publication, had bounded up into the best-seller class.

If it is true that "the story's the thing," then "One Way Street" should be the success of the year, for it boasts of a plot that is unusually strong and unique. The author has fashioned a tale that, while gripping in its suspense and universal in its theme, yet was particularly adaptable for screening.

The story is that of a famous opera singer who at the heighth of her career had the world worshipping at her feet. The possessor of a magnetic personality and of much charm and beauty, she found life glorious and exhilarating. Her admirers were legion and they counted it a privilege to honor her every desire.

But the years passed. The beauty of her face faded slowly and the influence she exerted ebbed away. With bitterness the singer realized that she was treading the "One Way Street" of youth. Suddenly she disappeared.

Years later a fascinating woman, with a natural bloom on her cheeks and alive with the vigor of youth, made her appearance in London so her past, for she never spoke of it. cial circles. Nothing was known of But the jealous women of her set were puzzled, for this woman resembled the opera singer who had disappeared.

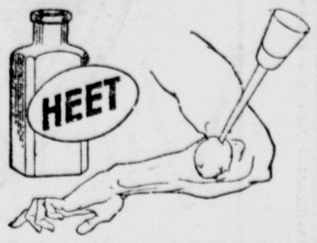

Men fell under her sway and succumbed—men of all ages.

There was one youth in particular that she set about to captivate. He succumbed to her ardent approaches and then—

The attempt of the woman to ruin the youth when he came to his senses and repulsed her; the revelation of her identity, and the sudden transformation of the woman into a hideous hag during a stage performance combine to make the climax of the story one of the most powerful ever conceived in the brain of an author.

GAS IN STOMACH HURTS THE HEART

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 13 years.

SCIENTISTS DECIDE TO BLAME OUR STUPID FEARS ON BILLION ANCESTORS

CHICAGO.—When Johnny has a tantrum and refuses to eat his porridge, mother says he's like his father.

Well, mama is right in a sense, only she shouldn't have stopped with Johnny's immediate paternal ancestor. Mamma should have gone back at least thirty generations or 1,000 years, and then perhaps she would have been nearer the mark.

Professor George Herbert Betts, psychologist at Northwestern university, has just completed an interesting study involving sixty of his students and a large amount of research, and his analysis of the test reveals some interesting facts.

Fear of the dark, Professor Betts explains, is predominant in 80 per cent of all children.

Why?

"We must go back generations," he answers, "back ages, back cycles of time—back through the links of the chain of heredity that binds us to our parents, our grand-parents, great-grand-parents, and so on backward to the earliest life from which we sprang.

"Think for a moment what this means. The child in the home today has two parents. Each of these had two, thus giving the child four grand-parents. The fourth generation back gives the child sixteen ancestors; the fifth, thirty-two, and so on. Go back thirty generations, less than 1,000 years, and the blood of more than a billion ancestors converges to make your child what he is today.'

Chicago Crime Wave Is Growing Menace; Murders on Increase

CHICAGO — Crime's constantly growing menace to Chicago—a menace that is shown by a jump in murders from 194 in 1920 to 352 in 1925 and an annual crime bill that now totals $60,000,000 annually—is to be fought by alarmed public spirited citizens.

Charging that the police and sheriff's forces have been backed up against the wall and the courts have broken down, 27 of the leading civic and business organizations of the city have adopted a program of federating all anti-crime activities and voted a yearly war-chest of $500,000 to carry it out.

"The Chicago Association for Criminal Justice" is in the making as a result. Its efforts will be directed first toward an investigation of civil as well as criminal courts, then co-operation with the officials in fighting crime.

ROAD PROGRAM BEING FRAMED

County Commissioners Busy Shaping Plans for Summer.

During the last few days the county commissioners have been giving considerable consideration to the 1926 road program, and for the purpose of advancing legislation as much as possible in order that contracts can be awarded and work on the different highways started as early as possible.

In addition to the county program, various township trustees are beginning to lay plans for road construction under the provisions of the Green law, which provides for the expenditure of $1,000 per mile of state aid.

The board of commissioners is now considering the construction of an improved road from New Waterford to Humtown, where a connection will be made with the new East Liverpool-Youngstown road, the northern part of the latter road being on the program for completion this year. Plans for the north section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road have been approved by the commissioners and have been forwarded to the state highway department at Columbus for approval.

The improvement of the Salineville-Summitville road this year is also to be put over, according to the plans of the commissioners. This latter route will pass through a section of Carroll county, but the commissioners of that county are agreed that Columbiana county award the contract for the whole job. Carroll county will share in the cost so far as it refers to Fox township.

GOOD FARM YEAR IS ANTICIPATED

"Indications are that 1926 will be a good year," declared Serice Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm bureau, who has just received advance reports from the United States department of Agriculture on this industry.

It has been pointed out in these reports that although profits are likely to be less than during the past two years, there may also be a slackening in the general demand for lambs. It is also pointed out by Mr. Heim that a further increase in production of sheep may be undertaken profitably in this county, on account of its closeness to the Cleveland and Pittsburgh markets.

Shipments of live stock from this county during the last few weeks has been low, due to the condition of the roads, it being almost impossible for farmers to get stock to loading stations. With the opening of weather conditions, there will be a decided increase in live stock shipping from all stations in this county, Mr. Heim has declared.

LODGE INSPECTION HERE TONIGHT

The annual inspection of New Lisbon lodge No. 65 F. & A. M. will be held in the Lisbon Masonic hall tonight. The event will be preceded by a banquet, which will be served by the ladies of Ivy chapter, Eastern Star of Lisbon. About 100 visiting members of the Masonic fraternity are expected to attend.

Motion Overruled.

A motion to strike out certain parts of the petition has been overruled by Judge Eastman in the case of H. Mitchell Gunder against Francis Zeigler, which was filed June 9, 1924, to recover $840 claimed to be due the plaintiff from the defendant for room and board.

Demurrer Sustained.

The demurrer has been sustained in the case of A. H. Ketterer and others against John Kaminsky and others, filed March 20, 1925, to recover a claim by the court at the costs of the plaintiff.

Receiver Named.

John Miller has been appointed receiver for the business in the case of Glenn Hawkins against L. F. Godfred and others, which was filed in common pleas court Nov. 11th last, seeking an injunction and dissolution of partnership.

Petition Dismissed.

The answer to the petition of the plaintiff has been withdrawn and the cross petition dismissed in the divorce action filed in common pleas court Aug. 10, 1925, by Russell Kitchell against his wife Mayme Mitchell.

JAPAN BOOSTS TOBACCO PRICE; PUBLIC ANGRY

Widespread Opposition May Have Effect on Elections.

PEOPLE WARNED

Increase on "Weed" Amounts to 20 Per Cent.

TOKIO.—Prices of tobacco have been arbitrarily increased in Japan by the government monopoly bureau and a wave of resentment is sweeping the nation. So serious and so widespread is public opposition to the increase that political observers predict it will affect the fortunes of the Kato ministry in the general election which is expected early in 1926.

The increase, which amounts to 20 per cent on practically all grades of tobacco, was put into effect without warning. The Monopoly Bureau announced at 11 o'clock at night on November 6, that the increase would go into effect as of midnight the same night. Early morning purchasers at the tobacco shops who had failed to read the newspapers were dumfounded when told that they must pay more for their favorite brand of cigarettes, cigars or smoking tobacco.

Helps National Treasury.

It was explained by the Monopoly bureau that the raise was effected to bring about an increase of 15,000,000 yen in the income of the bureau in order to make up a deficit in the total income of the national treasury resulting from reduction or abolition of certain other taxes. It was intimated, also, that the bureau is considering an increase in the price of sake, the national beverage, and other alcoholic drinks.

Almost immediately a public outcry was raised against the increase. It was denounced as unjustifiable and unwise. Influential newspapers and politicians were outspoken in condemning the action of the government as imposing an unnecessary burden upon a vast majority of the people. "The people suffer" was the keynote of editorial comment in the leading newspapers.

Poor Bear Burden.

"Tobacco may be a luxury," commented the Osaka Asahi, "but it is largely consumed by poor people in order that they may relieve themselves from the fatigue of hard labor. The tax upon tobacco is a consumption duty and the burden borne by wealthy persons is light, whereas it is heavy upon poor men. The raising of the price on the excuse of tobacco's being a luxury is questionable."

"The raising of tobacco prices is a great mistake nad an unjustifiable measure," declared Jiji Shimpo, an influential Takyo newspaper. "Apart from the question whether tobacco is a luxury, the cigars, cigarettes and tobacco which the Monopoly bureau manufactures are, no doubt the worst in the world, yet the government already realize an annual profit, of 129,265,000 yen from this source. This is a serious burden on our economic life and a further increase simply adds to the economic burdens of the people.'

Political Aspect.

The political aspect of the situation arise through the passage of the universal manhood suffrage law a year ago which increased the number of voters in Japan by about 10,000,000. A majority of these new voters are people of small income who feel most keenly the effect of any increase in the cost of nevessary commodities. That these people will not forget that it was the Kato ministry that raised the price of tobacco when they march to the polls is the general opinion in political circles.

Frenchman, in Flood, Saves Mattress First

Paris.—The recent floods have produced abundant illustration of the fact that the first household article which the Frenchman rescues when his home is threatened with inundation is the mattress. Strangely enough, the bicycle comes second.

Hardly an exception to this order was noted by a correspondent who watched boatmen moving the inhabitants from one of the Paris suburbs. The women were dry eyed and stern visaged as they were taken from their flooded homes, but obviously were laboring under great emotional stress.

"This is getting monotonous," said one woman who was forced to move to escape the floods in 1910, 1920 and 1924. "This sort of thing might be bearable once in fifty wears, but four times in fifteen years is a little too much."

New steamers across the English Channel have glass-sided lounges instead of the old open decks.

After Sickness Get Strong Quick

New Pleasant Way to Take Cod Liver Oil—Puts on Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist is authorized to return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—50 cents.

Vet Would Give Away $1,221 Won After Fight

New York.—For nearly seven years Solomon Harper, negro ex-soldier, struggled with the veterans' bureau. He was indefatigable. Now that he has what he set out to get, he wants to give it away. He proposes to give away his adjusted service certificate ($1,221) to establish a scholarship fund to help other youths, regardless of race or religion, to get education.

Harper hopes his example will lead other veterans to make some use of their bonus awards. He has a loan-and-insurance plan whereby the fund would replenish itself.

A year ago things were dark for Solomon Harper. He had attended every school within a day's ride of New York, and he had received no bonus award. Nevertheless, he wanted to send President Coolidge a Merry Christmas telegram. He did and all at once things happened; he received a certificate of graduation in engineering, his bonus, and everything he desired.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY — By Edgar Poe Norris

SEVENTY-THREE.

Noble's words reverberated in Laurel's ears: "Oh, give me a chance to prove my love, to show you that I'm not—oh, that you mean more more to me than any one else in the world, more than any one else could possibly mean."

He was waiting, his mouth compressed tensely, for her answer.

Pages of the book she had been reading curled over and lost her place. The poodle yawned and flopped down on the floor, panting. The little clock upon Mother Todd's desk ticked with dulling regularity.

"I don't know, Noble, I don't know," she murmured at last. Irresistibly her eyes were drawn to his face again. The scars of debauch were plainer now. There was a dark hollow under his lustreless eyes, a sag in his cheeks, drawn wrinkles around his mouth. Age was written deeply in his whole countenance. . . . Did she, could she, love him now? She got up, wanting to leave him, to be alone. She halted at a window and gazed out blankly.

"I know I've been a fool," he repeated for what seemed to be the thousandth time.

Laurel wheeled about. "I wonder if you have been a fool, or just Noble Harwood?"

He winced at this. "I ought to hate you for that," he answered quietly, with the effect of submissiveness, "but I don't, because I love you."

Slowly she came back and sat down opposite him. "You said a minute or two ago that I should not have gone off without giving you a chance to speak and so forth. Do you want me to believe that this is the only woman you have insulted me by knowing, since our marriage?"

"I don't know what you mean." Her searching eyes held his captive.

"You think I don't know what happened in New York on our honeymoon," she said, with irony in her tone. "I closed my eyes, resolving to think that it wasn't true, when my senses told me that it was."

Noble's glance fell momentarily, but rose to hers challengingly. "That's a lie. I—" He paused as a hand went up commandingly.

"Can you look me in the eyes and tell me that from the day of our marriage you have committed no act of unfaithfulness toward me, have harbored no unfaithful thought, have looked at no woman with eyes of desire?"

"That isn't fair, Laurel. Marriage doesn't keep even the most faithful husband from looking at a pretty woman."

"You are evading the question."

For a long time he looked squarely into her unrelenting eyes. Then his glance wavered. "No," he said hesitatingly, "I can't say that, but believe me, dear, oh, do believe me, I love no one but you. No one can mean anything to me but you. Please believe me."

In her eyes he had become a pleading old man. If he had been strong or even defiant she could have respected him; but not now.

"You must give me time to think." She wanted him to go away.

Perhaps he sensed the trend of her thoughts, for he drew himself up into a semblance of his old bearing. "I have humbled myself to you, Laurel, although I do not think I am entirely wrong. . . . I am going now. I want to do what is right. I will meet any demand you make upon me, because there is a child we must consider. It is the child I am thinking of now.

"Remain here a few days if you like, but remember, please, that you are still my wife."

He took his hat and moved toward the door, while her eyes stared blindly out of the window to the bright world beyond. What was her duty to her child? Should she consign herself to a life of doubtful happiness and probable misery just for the baby's sake?

At the door Noble turned hesitantly and faced her again. "I want to say again, Laurel, that I love you. . . Just tell me, dear, that it isn't impossible for you ever to love me wholeheartedly again."

She did not want to answer him; her heart protested. But out the words came, "No, Noble, it isn't impossible."

"Good-bye, dear." He closed the door behind him without knowing whether she replied.

Noble was not much beyond the gate when Bernice came striding up the stairs two at a time to burst into Laurel's room.

"What did you decide?" she asked excitedly.

"Oh, don't ask me, don't ask me!" Tears suddenly welling into her eyes, Laurel ran to the door and fled down the back stairs into the garden. With each step her mind told her that she must get away from here, from Central City.

She knew now that she couldn't stand the staring questioning eyes of the city when she finally did venture forth.

She had been there perhaps an hour, sitting disconsolately upon a stone bench beside the sun dial, her mind hot with thoughts of the past and suggestions of the future, when Mother Todd came to her.

"I'm not here to satisfy my curiosity," the elder woman said. "I wanted to suggest that you go for a quiet automobile ride with me this afternoon. I always have a car from the Central garage on Wednesday. We could go down Mill Creek valley. It would do you good."

"All right." Anything would be a relief from this house which she was beginning to hate.

"Wyman Holt came to the door a few minutes ago. I told him he couldn't see you."

"I wish you would make Bernice leave me alone. I can't stand her."

"I have to keep her here so she'll keep her mouth shut. I'll try to keep her quiet." Mother Todd went back toward the house.

A figure whose eyes watched her retreating figure rustled the hedge at Laurel's side. Laurel turned, startled. She glimpsed Wyman Holt's face, and got up.

"Wait, Laurel! Don't go! I just had to see you!"
